Foreign investors suck out $188 bn of Chinese stocks

Foreign investors pulled out a whopping $188 bn from Chinese markets — from a Dec 2021 peak to June 23 — showing the country's fading heft. Foreign fund participation in the Hong Kong stock market dropped by more than a third since the end of 2020, according to Bloomberg. The pullout coincides with China's economic slump due to Covid restrictions and persistent tensions with the West.

'One poll' plan attacks federal structure: CWC

Raps bill on mode of appointment of ECs

B KARTHEEK @ Hyderabad

THE Congress Working Committee (CWC) in its first meeting here on Saturday strongly opposed the 'one nation, one election' proposal, denouncing it as a direct assault on India's federal structure.

The CWC also extended a warm welcome to the Opposition bloc I.N.D.I.A. It voiced its opposition to the proposed Chief Election Commissioner and Other Election Commissioners (Appointment etc) Bill, which is to taken up for passing during Parliament's special session from September 18-22. The party argued that the bill would severely compromise the Election Commission of India's independence in ensuring free and fair elections.

After deliberations lasting five hours, the CWC adopted 14 resolutions covering a range of issues, including simultaneous elections, the political landscape, economic conditions and security challenges in regions such as the border with China, Kashmir and Manipur.

It "rejected the idea of a new Constitution", asserting that the fundamental structure of the Constitution should remain unchanged. Moreover, the committee expressed "grave concern" over the escalating unemployment rates and the continual rise in the prices of essential commodities. The extended CWC meeting, scheduled for Sunday, will delve into preparations for Assembly elections in five states and the forthcoming Lok Sabha elections. Later, the party will hold a public rally, Vijayabheri, on the city's outskirts.

I.N.D.I.A BLOC's BHOPAL MEET OFF

The first joint rally of the Opposition I.N.D.I.A bloc slated to be held in poll-bound Madhya Pradesh's Bhopal in the first week of October is off. Party general secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala said it was yet to be decided whether the first rally will be held in Bhopal or elsewhere

Pak army gives cover fire for infiltrators, 3 shot dead

THE Pakistan army on Saturday gave cover fire to infiltrators along the Line of Control (LoC) and shot down an Indian quadcopter that was trying to ascertain their whereabouts.

Indian troops noticed terrorists trying to cross the LoC in Uri in north Kashmir in the early hours of Saturday, a Srinagar-based defence spokesman said. In the firefight that ensured, the troops killed three terrorists.

"The security men fired on the militants attempting to sneak into this side of LoC. The militants retaliated and in the firefight, two militants were killed by noon and their bodies were recovered," he said.

When the troops engaged a third militant near the LoC in gunfire, he received cover fire from the Pakistan Army. "The third terrorist fell down towards the other side of LoC. While the operation was under progress, the quadcopter was flown to ascertain his whereabouts. However, the Pakistan Army shot it down, which establishes that they are abetting terrorism and assisting terrorists to infiltrate across the LoC," he said.

Elsewhere, the security forces intensified their operation to track down two-three Lashkar-e-Toiba militants involved in recent killing of four security personnel, including three officers — Colonel Manpreet Singh, Major Ashish Dhonchak and Deputy Superintendent of Police Humayun Bhat.

They are hiding in the dense Gadole forest area of Kokernag. A security official said troops are targeting their possible hideouts in caves in the forest area through rockets, mortar shells, grenades and ammunition from drones.

One of their hideouts was damaged in mortar shelling and rocket fire on Friday.

CM says no to all transfer requests

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

IT has been 112 days since the new government took over, but it still receives requests for transfers. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has told his ministers, MLAs and MLCs strictly that they should not accept any requests for transfers, unless they are for administrative reasons, sources said.

The last list of transfers was on September 13 when seven bureaucrats and the next day on September 14 when three senior police officers were transferred. There was criticism on social media over the transfer of KPSC Secretary Vikas Kishor Surulkar. P7

Kalyana Karnataka Festival and 371(J) Implementation Decade Celebration

Warm Wishes for vibrant people of Kalyana Karnataka

For the people of 'Kalyana Karnataka,' the enactment of Article 371(J) has been a decade-long journey, resulting from their relentless efforts to secure employment and educational reservations, as well as special grants. This significant milestone in the constitution was achieved through their persistent struggle.

Following the principles of Basavanna's 'Arive Guru' and Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's philosophy of 'Prabuddha Bharat,' Gram Panchayat libraries are being transformed into 'Arivu Kendra.' In the Kalyana Karnataka region, 939 libraries are currently undergoing upgrades, with the aim of empowering these centres for the task of knowledge dissemination. Additionally, the monthly remuneration for librarians is being increased, and a minimum wage facility has been provided.

In Gram Panchayats across the state, 4,000 'Koosina Mane' childcare centres are being introduced to cater to the nurturing and care of rural labourers' children. The establishment of 881 such centres is currently in progress in the Kalyana Karnataka region.

A grant of 100 crores has been allocated for the construction of 400 community toilet complexes in the Kalyana Karnataka region, with each complex estimated to cost around 25 lakhs. The construction is set to take place in 218 villages across seven districts of KK Region.

NICE (Nagavi Institute of Competitive Examination) centre is being established at Vajpayee Layout of Kalaburagi Nagar with the aim of providing competitive examination training to unemployed graduates from the Kalyana Karnataka region. The centre is designed to accommodate and train approximately 2,000 candidates annually.

Through the Rural Water Supply Scheme, 658 crores have been spent to provide drinking water access for 2.33 lakh households.

Health screenings for 21 lakh labourers across the state are taking place at MNREGA work sites under the Grama Health Program. Additionally, a grant of Rs 1,201 crores has been provided for the sustainable income of 19,800 farmers and the expansion of cultivation over 26,507 acres under the Mahatma Gandhi NREGA scheme.

Construction of 400 community toilet complexes has been undertaken in the Kalyana Karnataka Region."

A Commitment to Develop Kalyana Karnataka I A Government that walks the talk

"To protect and respect our vibrant culture and tradition," is a Fundamental Duty of every citizen. This is affirmed by our constitution

HANDLOOM HERO @ 97

From padayatra to trekking, freedom fighter Sangappa Mante from Kodekal village is trying everything to revive the industry

RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI
@Kalaburagi

AT the ripe age of 97, Sangappa Mante is on a mission: to save the handloom industry. For more than two decades, the warhorse from Kodekal village of Hunasagi taluk (Yadgir district) has been fighting to protect traditional handloom weaving. He took up a padayatra twice in the past decade, and three years ago, trekked 300km from Kodekal to Kottur in Davanagere district.

Mante, whose family continues traditional handloom weaving, has joined hands with Charaka Movement founder Prasunna, well-known theatre artist-director and activist.

Mante has always been a restless soul, having fought for the liberation of erstwhile Hyderabad state from the then Nizam, who had declined to merge with an independent India on August 15, 1947.

Hyderabad state, comprising 17 districts of Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra, along with Bidar, Kalaburagi and Raichur districts, were part of the erstwhile kingdom and continued to be part of the Nizam's kingdom after 1947.

In the heady days following Independence, Sardar Veerupakshappa Gowda of Rajankollur village near Kodekal, was a leading figure in the fight against the Nizam's army (razakars) to liberate erstwhile Hyderabad state. Gowda was soon killed.

Sangappa Mante, Gowda's close associate, adopted the Gandhian style of resistance against the Nizam, walking around Kodekal village in khadi attire and carrying the national flag to raise awareness on the happenings in the country. His aim was to ignite a sense of patriotism among the villagers.

He and his friends would shelter activists of liberation movement and place hurdles on the road to prevent the razakars from entering Kodekal village.

The Nizam government arrested Mante in 1948 and put him in Kalaburagi Central Jail for three months for waging war against it. He was released a few months before liberation of erstwhile Hyderabad state, on September 17, 1948. Ever since, Mante has held khadi dear, and is continuing the fight to revive the dying handloom industry. Yadgir district administration said that Mante is the only surviving activist of erstwhile Hyderabad state liberation movement from Yadgir district.

"The government should do everything possible to protect traditional industries. Instead of giving free grains, money etc, the government should double or treble the wages of artistes, provide materials at subsidised rates, and provide a good market. The government should take steps to popularise products of traditional industries. It will not only save the traditional industry, but also increase employment opportunities and keep youngsters in good health," he said.

Family bond with handlooms

Sangappa Mante was born on June 25, 1926, in a weaver's family at Ikkalaki village of Aland taluk in Kalaburagi district. His family later shifted to Kodekal in Yadgir. He started working on handlooms at the age of 16, when his family had only two handloom units. "There was a lot of demand for khadi and handloom back then, and we used to get sufficient cotton," said Mante, who went on to increase the number of handloom units from two to 20, from 1942 to 1946. Until 1960, his family had 22 units. There were 300 families in Kodekal which were involved in weaving, Mante recalls.

After 1960, the number of handloom production units started declining, and now his family has only two units, which are operated by Mante's three sons. There are hardly 7-8 families who are still involved in traditional weaving, says Mante.

Mante, who is state unit president of the Federation of All-India Handloom Associations, had been invited by the President to participate in a reception for freedom fighters and activists at the Rashtrapati Bhavan on August 9, 2015.

'Working on loom better than yoga'

Asked whether he was did yoga or exercise to maintain his health at the age of 97, Sangappa Mante said working on a handloom is a better exercise. We have to use our hands, legs, eyes and mind in coordination, which is a great exercise, he felt.

ROLL OF HONOUR

Mante received the state-level Deshi Rastriya Kaimagga Prashasti (National Handloom Award) for 2012-13 on December 21, 2014, and Nekara Ratna Award instituted by Karnataka Rajya Nekara Samudayagala Okuta (Federation of Karnataka State Weaving community) on August 7, 2022

A few weeks ago, Yadgir Deputy Commissioner Sushila visited Mante's house and felicitated him on behalf of the district administration. Sangappa has received an invitation from Kalyana Karnataka Amrit Mahotsava Samiti to receive an award on September 17 in Kalaburagi for his contribution to the liberation movement

BBMP APPOINTS 80 SWIMMERS FOR SAFETY DURING GANESHA FESTIVAL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@BENGALURU

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) will deploy 80 swimmers at Kalyanis (idol immersion tanks) across the city for Ganesha idol immersion, on Saturday. BBMP is taking these steps to ensure that no untoward incidents are reported during the festival.

As per BBMP officials, immersion will start from September 18, in 39 kalyanis including Ulsoor, Hebbal, Yediyur, and Sankey. To ensure that the idol immersion is hassle-free, BBMP officials are also installing CCTV cameras and putting barricades for the public, along with other safety measures.

The corporation has arranged for 418 mobile immersion tankers which will be placed at strategic residential locations and will also move around the city, for the convenience of citizens, covering all the 27 assembly constituency segments.

As per the Palike's directions, all clay Ganesha idols ranging from 5 inches to 3 feet in height will have to immersed in mobile immersion tankers. The officials are also checking places to crack a whip on POP Ganesha idols. BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath has also ordered the public to seek permission for Ganesha pandals from 63 sub-divisions, and permission will be given under the single window clearance system.

'Need to strengthen the process of accreditation'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

MOST higher educational institutions don't come to accreditation agencies as they have fear of failure which needs to be taken into account, said Prof K Radhakrishnan, Chairperson IIT, Kanpur and former Secretary to the ISRO.

He was speaking at the 29th Foundation Day celebrations of National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC), in Bengaluru and said that there is an urgent need to strengthen the process of the accreditation system in India and brace for future challenges.

The 29th Foundation Day celebrations of National Assessment and Accreditation Council held in Bengaluru.

He added, "Accreditation and ranking are very important aspects for nation-building process, whether it is NAAC (National Assessment and Accreditation Council), NBA (National Board of Accreditation) there should be a mechanism to check and validate the data submitted by institutions to authenticate their validity." Radhakrishnan also emphasised the implementation of the National Education Policy (NEP) and discussed relevant issues in the education field.

Prof Anil Sahasrabudhe, Chairman, Executive Committee, NAAC stressed on entire gamut of the accreditation process and the need for transparency and integrity in assessments. Prof Ganesan Kannabiran, Director, NAAC explained the reforms proposed and making NAAC credible and more transparent over the next couple of years. He added, "Lots of reforms have been taken up although they are in the initial stages. Once Prof Radhakrishnan's committee recommendations are implemented, NAAC will become a more transparent organisation and play a crucial role in the educational system."

'CLUSTERING OF SCHOOLS TO TRANSFORM PUBLIC EDUCATION IN KARNATAKA'

CLUSTERING of schools will help transform the public education system in Karnataka as there are many schools with just a fraction of teachers and students. Karnataka Public Schools (KPS) are a tried and tested model, and with it, infrastructure and quality of education will improve, says Madhu Bangarappa, Karnataka Minister of School Education and Literacy, during an interaction with the editors and staff of The New Sunday Express. With a keen interest in implementing the State Education Policy (SEP), he said the transition from National Education Policy (NEP) to SEP will be smooth and beneficial for all without a political agenda.

What is the need for State Education Policy? Won't students suffer due to policy changes?
We made a commitment in the manifesto and people voted for us because of it. We will keep our word. People believe that SEP is better than NEP. I was the 2023 manifesto vice-president with Dr G Parameshwara as chairman. SEP will be more friendly and closer to all of us. In our country, each state has a different culture and language. Everything cannot be put in one book. Our children do not need Hindutva-infused or ideological-based studies. What we have done is not against any political party nor in favour of any party. It is done in the interest of students. It will be more relevant to our state, our culture and our language.

Will the implementation of SEP from next academic year be possible?
We are positive. There will not be much difference between NEP and SEP in primary school education than in higher education. The departments are working on the changes without causing much trouble to students or teachers. I respect Hindi, but my mother tongue is Kannada. People have started liking English as the medium of learning, not because the British ruled us, but because English is a global language and can give students more exposure.

How is the government going to implement SEP?
We have to do it step by step. I am not technically qualified to give many details. It will be worked out by the experts, with a committee. We have to understand what parents need. The transition will be gradual. It depends on the higher education minister too. Already, NEP has been implemented and the change won' tbe sudden. It will be balanced, otherwise children will be affected. We have to be organised as far as the teaching style is concerned.

The government recently announced three board exams. Won't two have sufficed?
Let me give an example. In the Olympic Games of high jump, why do athletes get three chances? So that the athletes can perfect their scores. The government can easily accommodate three board exams. This is just to give a chance to students and they should not remain a liability. The subject teacher concerned must prepare students for all three board exams. This has not been tried anywhere else in the country. The best of three exam marks will be considered and it will be implemented from the next academic year.

Don't you think it's a burden for teachers and administration?
It is the duty of the teacher. When it comes to cost, it is very nominal and the government can afford it as the department's budget is Rs 33,000 crore.

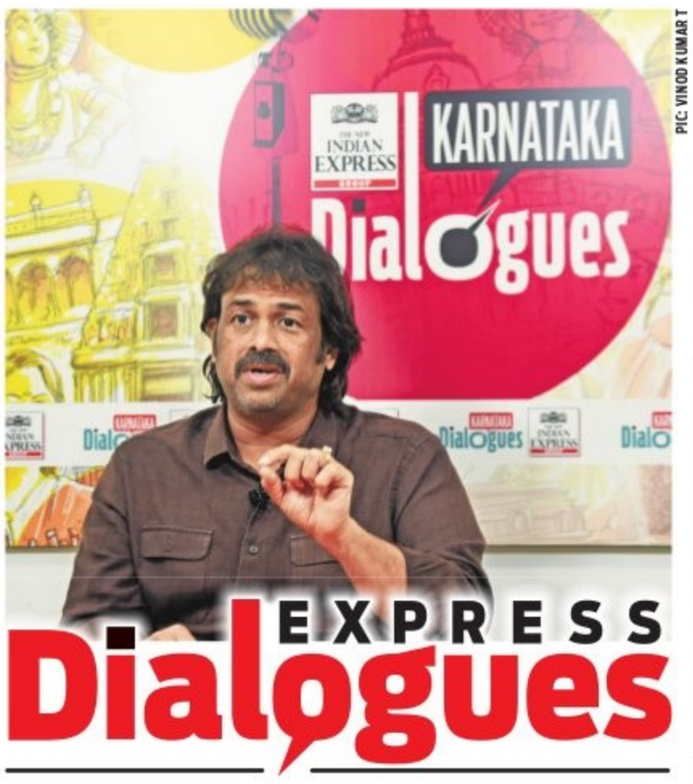
Can you tell us more about Karnataka Public Schools?
In the last four years, the admission rates have gone up 450% in KPS. There is a lot of demand. There are around 1,000 government schools with zero students. They lack facilities and infrastructure. Schools with fewer students will be clustered. KPS with minor corrections will be a success. We are aiming for one KPS for every three gram panchayats. Transportation will be provided to students. In the next two years, I want to transform at least 600 KPSs. Right now, we have about 200 KPS model schools in Karnataka. In the next three years, the target is 1,100.

What about the funds?
There is a fund crunch and we are getting money through CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility) funds of corporates. I have got a commitment of over Rs 600 crore, while our target is Rs 2,500 crore. The money will not be with the department, but with different CSR teams.

Will more students be enrolled in government schools from the next academic year?
I have to get them back. They are paying higher fees in private and aided schools. They have gone to those schools because the government schools lack infrastructure. If all facilities are provided in the government schools, definitely the students will come back.

After clustering, what will happen to the existing schools? Will they be closed and what will be the average distance for children to travel?
No school will be closed. Even the teachers will come to the KPS. The property will remain. For example, if there are only 10 students in a school, nobody will send their children to such schools. MLAs will have to choose which schools should be clustered. I get calls from BJP MLAs to do something about it as there are functioning schools but no teachers or students. More schools will be clustered in Malnad where the population is spread out and schools are more. In places like these, KPS will help. In my constituency, there are 32 schools with zero students.

Should the government not look at increasing the budget for the education department, instead of seeking CSR funds?
My budget is not too tight. The CM and DyCM are getting me funds. If I don't get it from CSR, I will have to take it from the government. I am asking companies to invest in education, instead of developing parks. The CM too has assured me of funds. I am not reducing my budget. I'm just managing it.



PIC: VINOD KUMAR T

Recently, the cabinet decided to investigate the poor quality of school uniforms. But what about this academic year where they are wearing substandard uniforms?
I blame the BJP government. Students are not supposed to wear them, but for this academic year, nothing much can be done. The government will take strict action against all those responsible. The money for the School Development Management Committee (SDMC) was sent a month ago, but the problem is also because of the transfer of teachers. When transfers happen, work stops. This will also impact administration. Around 32,000 teachers have taken transfers through counselling. I did not transfer them, they applied voluntarily. From the next academic year, everything will be streamlined.

Do you want to tighten the permission given to start private schools to improve government schools?
Private organisations legally have the right to open new schools, and I am nobody to stop them. I have to give permission. I aim to improve our schools (government schools) which have been neglected for a long time, which is why clustering is important. I am not targeting any private schools.

But what about schools running illegally, or without proper permissions?
There are 1,600 illegal schools running without registration. When we came to power, the academic year had already started. Children are already studying in these schools and they are mostly private or unaided institutions. I don't have the facilities to move them. We have made the rules very strict and given them warnings. From next year, they will not be allowed to admit students. If we do it mid-term, parents and students will be helpless.

Drinking water is still a problem in government schools...
Out of 100, about 10 schools may have some issues. Mainly, water is not a problem. Basic facilities are given, but the media blows up some issues. I get a lot of complaints regularly and they are resolved. We have 76,000 schools and the administration has to be strict, but it lacks in some places.

Drug abuse is on the rise in schools. How are you going to address this?
It needs a multi-departmental approach. The main plug has to be pulled. Rules and regulations also come into play, and we are trying to solve what is possible at our level. Recently, in Mangaluru, chocolate-laced drugs were found and we acted on it. There is drug abuse, but it is not rampant.

What about shortage of teachers? Isn't it one of the reasons for children dropping out?
I have got a platter full of problems. We've taken the highest number of guest teachers -- 43,000 have been recruited, while we need 53,000 more. However, guest teachers are not permanent and are paid less. We want permanent ones. We have selected 15,000 teachers and recruited 13,500. A case on this is also pending before the High Court. Teachers, too, are frustrated. Clustering of schools will reduce the shortage of teachers. There are instances where a teacher is teaching just 10 students, but can teach at least 50.

How will the government provide appropriate support to children with learning disabilities?
Right now we cannot do it. That's why we need a KPS system, where students with disabilities can be given special treatment. Currently, if one teacher is teaching five classes it cannot be possible. So we need to streamline the process and improve the system altogether. Our immediate goal is 600 schools and in the long run, we want to develop 2,000 KPS all over Karnataka.

Do you plan to promote sports in schools?
With a strong KPS system, we will be able to do that. Not just sports but other extracurricular activities, too.

What about basic hygiene in schools?
Basic hygiene is lacking in schools. The previous government allocated only Rs 10,000 per school for 10 months, which is the duration that schools remain open in a year. We have increased it to Rs 20,000 per school. Again, clustering will help. Five schools will get Rs 1 lakh and that will improve management and maintenance of all facilities in the school. With good infrastructure, I can guarantee an 80-85% success rate.

Aam Aadmi Party in Delhi has public policies like free health care and education. Are you trying the same?
I will never compare. Who knows, I might be better than them. The scale in Karnataka, which we are working on, is much bigger. AAP in Delhi is managing a size that is equal to Belagavi in geographical area and population, but my limit is 30 times bigger.

Tell us about the Sasya Shyamala Scheme and practical classes that will help boost the students' scores.
It is about planting saplings and nurturing them. When students visit 20 years later, they will see full-grown trees. The rules and plans for the project have been drawn out. This will also be a part of the students' curriculum. It will carry 20% marks and will be a part of their practicals. This will also help reduce the final exam stress.

A report showed that 17,000 girls left II PUC because of the hijab controversy. How will the government bring them back?
I don't want to talk much about it. It's shameful. We are supposed to give education to all and as far as I'm concerned it's in the court.

How has your father and former CM, late S Bangarappa inspired you?
I don't know how big my father was. I am still getting to know him from people who keep talking about him. My father once said, 'You may send people empty-handed, but do not hurt their sentiments by giving them false assurances'.

You have a film background, you are involved in the education sector by running schools and you are now a minister. Which role do you like the most?
I feel I fit into all roles. If I am not comfortable, I will not take up that work. When election results were declared on May 13, we were at a private hotel when the portfolios were being decided. Initially, I was being assigned another portfolio, but (DyCM) Shivakumar said, 'Madhu should be given a tough job', and I was given this portfolio.

Flare-ups on many fronts; Congress govt faces many challenges

JUST when the Siddaramaiah government was riding high on a feel-good factor generated by implementing the guarantee schemes, it now seems to be faced with flare-ups on multiple fronts politically and a daunting task for the administration.

The First Information Report (FIR) against a cabinet minister and the government's response to it raises some serious questions.

In a major embarrassment to the government, which recently completed 100 days in office, an FIR was registered against Minister for Planning and Statistics D Sudhakar following a complaint by a woman alleging assault and atrocity over a land dispute. The minister was quick to rubbish the allegations and the court stayed the proceedings in the case.

However, the development gave the opposition BJP and JD(S) a handle to slam the government as anti-Dalit. As video clips, purportedly of the minister threatening a person, went viral, the opposition demanded that the CM drop him from the ministry, and also sought his arrest. The merits of the case will be examined by the courts. But, the government's immediate response raised some eyebrows.

Deputy Chief Minister and State Congress president DK Shivakumar termed it a false case even before the probe was taken up. This was in contradiction to the stand taken by his party in 2022 when it questioned BJP leaders for giving a clean chit to then Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR) minister KS Eshwarappa in a contractor's suicide case. As an Opposition, Congress went hammer and tongs questioning the BJP leaders' statements as that could impact the ongoing probe. The logic and concern remain the same even now. Such instances could dent the government's image.

On the political front, the internal differences among senior Congress leaders fell into the open with the AICC Disciplinary Action Committee issuing a notice to senior Congress leader and Permanent Invitee to the Congress Working Committee (CWC) BK Hariprasad for criticising Chief Minister Siddaramaiah publicly. The notice was issued after Congress' central leadership received complaints against him. The veteran leader's commitment to the party, its leadership, and the ideology is unwavering, but his remarks had angered many, especially Siddaramaiah's followers.

Whatever may be the reasons for Hariprasad's displeasure, the whole development of his going public with his views and the party deciding to serve him a notice indicate that all is not hunky-dory in the party that has set itself an ambitious target of winning 20 out of 28 Lok Sabha seats in the state. Unless the issue is sorted out amicably, it can continue to be an irritant for Congress at a time when the Grand Old Party is trying to push the Karnataka Model across India.

Now, the demand from some quarters within the party to create more Deputy Chief Minister posts can also be a new headache for the government and the party. If the demand gains traction in the coming days, it could put the leadership in a tight spot.

While it remains to be seen how the ruling party will handle the political challenges, on the administrative front, the Siddaramaiah government has to get going on the war-footing to take up drought-relief works.

As many as 195 taluks have been declared drought-hit following the Central guidelines and getting ground truth-finding reports from the deputy commissioners. The cabinet sub-committee headed by Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda is going about the work diligently.

However, as the procedures — sending the report to the Centre, the Central team visiting the state, and releasing the grants — may take some time, the state government has to immediately start the relief works by utilising available resources. Administration, which was heavily focused on rolling out guarantees, needs to show the same vigour in drought relief work. It is going to be a multi-department effort spread across the state.

Also, the government can look at the possibility of utilising the drought relief works to help farmers in the long run. It should not become a Centre Vs State issue, but both should rush to help people in the drought-hit areas.

Written to Centre on drought-hit taluks: Min

MYSURU: Agriculture Minister N Chaluvarayaswamy said that the Karnataka government has written to the Union Government urging it to declare drought in all the 195 taluks. A Cabinet sub-committee earlier this week had declared 195 taluks in the state as drought-hit. Of the 195 taluks, 161 are suffering from "severe drought" and the remaining 34 face "moderate drought". The proposal to declare drought-hit taluks will be submitted to the Centre. The minister said that the Centre should also give the drought-hit tag to the 34 taluks facing "moderate drought". ENS

Min Rajanna seeks 3 more DyCMs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Tumakuru

Cooperation Minister KN Rajanna on Saturday floated the idea of appointing three more deputy chief ministers in Karnataka to help boost Congress' prospects in the upcoming Lok Sabha elections. Rajanna, a staunch supporter of CM Siddaramaiah, said he will take a delegation of like-minded legislators and party leaders to New Delhi to present his idea before the Congress high command.

"This is my personal opinion. I will write to the high command. I will meet the party top brass in October. The high command should take a call as to who should be made three DyCMs. It is in the interest of the party," he elaborated.

Rajanna clarified that he is not in the race for the post. "If leaders from communities that largely voted for Congress in the Assembly elections are made DyCMs, it will help the party in the Lok Sabha polls. A few MLAs have conveyed the same thoughts to me," he added. Rajanna suggested that the three DyCM posts should be given to leaders from the Veerashaiva-Lingayat, SC/ST and minority communities.

He clarified that he is not against the present DyCM DK Shivakumar, who is also the president of the Congress state unit. "I am not against DK Brothers. I am happy that Shivakumar is DyCM," he added.

Defending his statement, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said there is nothing wrong with the demand as it has good intentions. "He (Rajanna) felt that it will help the party win more LS seats. The high command will take a final decision," he added.

Agriculture Minister N Chaluvarayaswamy said he did not understand why Rajanna issued such a statement, but the high command will take a decision. RDPR Minister Priyank Kharge in Kalaburagi said that there is no proposal before the Congress high command to appoint three DyCMs in the state. Priyank is the son of AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge. On Rajanna's demand, Priyank said the former has the right to express his feelings.

Drought norms should be more farmer-friendly: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

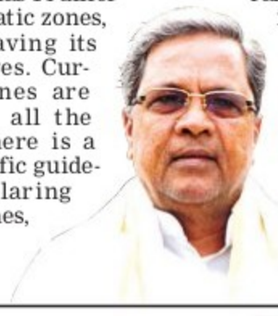
CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah said flaws in the norms in the Union Government's Manual for Drought Management 2020 are the reason for the delay in declaring drought in the state and unless the norms are changed, it would not be difficult to immediately take up work to provide relief to people in drought-hit areas.

Siddaramaiah said that the Centre had not responded to his letter seeking amendments to the manual. The changes in the norms will help all states, not just Karnataka.

"Instead of putting pressure on the Centre to change the norms, the BJP leaders in the state are making baseless allegations against the state government with an ulterior motive to gain political mileage from the drought situation, " the Chief Minister said in a statement.

Siddaramaiah said the drought management guidelines should be more farmer-friendly.

Karnataka has 14 different agro-climatic zones, with each having its own challenges. Current guidelines are common for all the zones and there is a need for specific guidelines for declaring drought in zones, the CM said.



"The India Meteorological Department declares even a 10% rainfall deficit across the country as a drought year. However, according to the criteria, if the states have to declare drought, the rainfall variation index should be more than 60%. We have to take into account the gap between the two. Although the rainfall variation index ranges from 20% to 59%, it should be considered as a necessary trigger factor for drought declaration," he said.

Another important benchmark in the manual that leads to delays in drought declaration is that the state government has to submit a mandatory certificate to the Centre that 'no further sowing activity' will take place. This is in contrast to the concept of input subsidy. The concept of input subsidy is that economic activity should be resumed by providing immediate relief. However, due to the central regulations, it will not be possible for the state government to immediately proceed with drought relief after declaring drought, he stated.

The disbursement of input subsidy should be considered as proof by the insurance companies for providing insurance compensation in respect of crop damage, he stated.

The Raitha Hitha Rakshana Samithi staged a protest and blocked roads in Mandya against the Cauvery Water Management Authority's direction to release 5,000 cusecs of water to Tamil Nadu. They urged the state government not to abide by the decision as water left in the dam is not even sufficient to meet the drinking needs of people

METRO's ORR, AIRPORT LINE TO BE READY BY SEPT 2026

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BENGALURU Metro's Central Silk Board to KR Puram (Phase 2A) and KR Puram to Kempegowda International Airport (Phase-2B) lines will be in place by September 2026, said B L Yashavanth Chavan, Chief Public Relations Officer of Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited.

He was responding to a query during a panel discussion on 'Namma Bengaluru-Better Infrastructure' organised on Friday by the iNFHRA (Infrastructure, Facility, Human Resource and Realty Association) as part of its 8th edition of WorkPlace Excellence conference with the support of the Outer Ring Road Companies Association (ORRCA).

Chavan said, "By the time Phase 2A and 2B are ready, the Electronic City line would be ready with connectivity to Silk Board. IT industry professionals who commute to the airport can travel seamlessly."

As per the Comprehensive Development Plan, BMRCL is to put in place 317 km by 2031. "We are internally trying to reach 450 km by that time to help public use public transport," he said.

Srinivas Alavilli, Fellow, Integrated Transport and Road Safety, WRI India, said, "Bengaluru has nearly 1.2 crore vehicles to cater to its population of 1.4 crore. If those under 18 who do not drive are left out, we have more vehicles than the city's population. Comparatively, the city only had 45 lakh vehicles in 2016." Alavalli, who is behind the Personal2Public campaign to goad the public to use public transport, repeatedly emphasised the need for it.

KR Vishwanath, Chief Traffic Manager, Operations, BMTC, said buses were impacted heavily due to the proliferation of private vehicles on the road. "During peak hours, buses run on speeds ranging between 8 and 10 km per hour which is almost the speed at which a pedestrian can walk. We are running 57 lakh trips presently with our fleet of 6,000 buses. We have 390 electric vehicles and hope to have 1,500 of them within six months which will promote green mobility."

Participants at the panel discussion on 'Namma Bengaluru-Better Infrastructure

He pointed out that on the recent bandh day, Vayu Vajra buses to and from the airport ferried nearly 26,000 people in place of the regular average figure of 12,000.

R K Singh, Director of K-RIDE, which is implementing the Bengaluru Suburban Rail Project, said, "We plan to run a suburban train every five minutes." Work has started in one suburban corridor between Bennigenahalli and Chikkabanara (Corridor 2) while tenders will shortly be finalised for the other one between Heelalige and Rajanakunte.

B S Prahlad, BBMP Engineer-in-Chief, said it is partnering with all public transport agencies to ensure a seamless travel for residents.

Govt vehicles to be taken to crusher in phases

State says scrapping in one go will affect services

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

IN the wake of the Union Ministry of Road Transport and Highways mandate that all vehicles older than 15 years and above have to be scrapped, at least 10,000 vehicles of various government departments in the state will go under the crusher.

However, these vehicles cannot be scrapped immediately in one go as agencies like the fire and emergency department, water board and police will have to first get their replacement.

This is also the case with white board government vehicles, wherein tenders will have to be called for vehicles in a phased manner as it will have a huge financial burden to the state exchequer.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Mallikarjuna C, Additional Commissioner to Transport Commissioner (Enforcement South), said, "There are over 10,000 government vehicles in the state that are eligible for scrapping. As these vehicles are working for crucial departments like fire services, police department, Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board, scrapping them in one go will affect regular services. So, we have to do the scrapping of government vehicles in phases."

He further added that even for other government vehicles like the ones that are used by government officials, scrapping all of them in one go might affect government services. "If the government places an order to buy new vehicles, private companies cannot supply all of them immediately."

Keeping these factors in mind, the state transport department will appeal to the ministry to allow operation of government vehicles in the state that have crossed 15 years till they are scrapped in a phased manner.

The transport department has permitted a private company to set up the first Registered Vehicle Scrapping Facility (RVSF) at Vijayapura in Devanahalli taluk and people have been requested to make use of the centre to scrap their old vehicles on voluntary basis.

There are over 10,000 government vehicles that are eligible for scrapping. As these vehicles are working for crucial departments, scrapping them in one go will affect services — Mallikarjuna C, Transport

Special drive against pvt vehicles, Rs 9.24L collected as penalty

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

After multiple complaints against private travel operators for charging exorbitantly and carrying goods in passenger vehicles, Transport Department officials carried out a special checking drive in Karnataka and collected Rs 9.24 lakh as fine from the violators.

The special drive was carried out on contract carriage vehicles, omnibuses, All India Tourist Omni Buses (AITOB), maxi cabs and others. The permit details, tax dues, vehicle documents and other details were checked in the special drive.

The Transport Department has also collected Rs 3.2 lakh tax from the vehicles. There were 189 cases of permit violation and three vehicles were seized.

Fancy number auction

State Transport Department in line with Rule 46 (AA) of Karnataka Motor Vehicles Rules 1989 has invited applications for the allotment of fancy registration numbers for Light Motor Vehicles (cars, jeeps etc) between 1 and 9999. The auction will be done at the Transport Commissioner's Office, Shantinagar for the series 'KA 03/NS attached to the Bengaluru (East) Kasturinagar RTO at noon on Sep 27.

Face action for harassing passengers: Top cop

City Police Commissioner B Dayananda said Saturday that stringent action will be taken against auto rickshaw drivers for harassing passengers over fares.

The top cop was speaking at the AskCPBlr session, the last for August, and said that regulations will be introduced and enforced to curb noise pollution.

He also warned that appropriate action will be taken for wrong-way driving. During the session, road accidents and safety measures were also discussed.

K'taka will not face medicine shortage after Dec: Minister

Health Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao said government hospitals will not face any medicine shortage after December. "The state Medical Supplies Corporation Ltd is not supplying medicines to hospitals properly. The government is trying to change this on a priority basis," he told reporters during the inauguration of an upgraded emergency unit at Jayadeva hospital in Bengaluru on Saturday. Rao also stressed on the need to set up more pharmacies outside hospitals to ensure that people do not have to get medicines from elsewhere. In alignment with the CSR initiative of Canara Bank which helped renovate the emergency unit, the minister asked other private companies too to use their CSR funds for the development of the health sector. ENS

Bike-borne miscreants attack 42-year-old techie in road rage

A 42-year-old techie, who was returning home with his family members after attending a birthday party at Doddanekundi, was attacked by two unidentified scooter-borne miscreants in Hennur police station limits. The victim, M Somesh Jain, a resident of K Narayanapura Cross in Kothanur, was in his car a few days ago, when the accused overtook it near Hennur Cross around 10.35 pm. An argument ensued without any provocation and Jain was allegedly punched in the face by the accused, who was riding pillion. The police are on the lookout for the accused. Jain, who has sustained injuries around his left eye, refused to comment. "It was a road rage incident. The accused are yet to be arrested," said an officer. Hennur police has filed a case. ENS

When college projector lands at centre of non-crime

PRAVEEN KUMAR @Bengaluru

THE principal of the Government Arts College on Ambedkar Veedhi was in for a shock when he could not find an expensive smart class projector in one of the classrooms recently.

Assuming that it had been stolen, he filed a complaint with the jurisdictional police. Starting the due investigation, the police spoke to the staffers as they initially suspected it to be an insider job. But in the end, it turned out to be a case of baseless fright and lack of communication between different staffers in the college.

It all started on September 8, when the principal, PT Srinivasa Naika, was on rounds of the college during an exam for degree students. When he entered Room Number 43, he noticed that the projector was not in its place.

The entire college was searched and there was no trace of the electronic item that cost Rs 80,000. The projector and a smart board had been given to the college by the state government as part of its digital education programme.

Naika told The New Indian Express, "The projector was not seen when I went to the classroom during the exams. I filed a police complaint."

A police officer, who is part of the investigation, said, "After the complaint was registered, we spoke to a few people in the college."

That was when it was found that the projector had been taken by a technician for repairs as it was not working.

The police checked whether this information too was correct. They are now in the process of closing the case that had been registered under IPC 380 (theft). "The Principal who was not aware of it had filed the complaint," said the officer.

The principal said that the projector has been returned after repairs.

EVERYONE EQUAL BEFORE LAW: JAGAN ON NAIDU'S ARREST

'Looting, cheating his ideology for 45 years'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

ASSERTING that everyone is equal before the law, Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy said TDP chief N Chandrababu Naidu was was remanded to judicial custody after he was caught with evidence in a corruption case.

Responding for the first time after the arrest of Chandrababu Naidu, the Chief Minister said TDP chief has made looting and cheating his political ideology all his 45 years of political career.

Addressing a public meeting in Nidadavolu of East Godavari district on Saturday, organised for the disbursement of Rs 536.77 crore to 3,57,844 women beneficiaries under the Kapu Nestham scheme, the Chief Minister said unfortunately, despite there being evidence of Naidu's corruption, the influential gang of robbers, who are his associates are trying to save him, conveniently ignoring that no one is above law

"Today, a voice has risen to assert that the law is the same for the powerful influential people and the common man. Cronies of Naidu are unable to digest this fact," he said. Elaborating further, he cited examples of the TDP chief getting caught red-handed in corruption, but his supporters trying to make light of it.

Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy during an event in Godavari district on Saturday | EXPRESS

"Even when the evidence was so clear and people were aware that it was Naidu's voice in the audio tape and money offered was black money stashed by him, those supporting Naidu give him clean cheat and pronounce him innocent," he said and added that reason for it is because these people too are partners in that crime.

"All fake documents and Invoices and other major evidence have been procured by the investigating agencies. Chandrababu Naidu even signed in 13 places in various documents in connection with the Skill Scam and CID gave all the evidence to the court. Even Chandrababu PA is Involved in the case and he already fled abroad. Even, the central investigating agency ED investigated the skill scam and arrested people involved in the scam." he elaborated.

District-level janatha darshan on Sept 25

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has directed district-in-charge ministers to hold district-level janatha darshans in their respective districts on September 25. A note issued by the Chief Minister's Office stated that it is appropriate to hold district-level Janata darshan once every month as people from across the state are coming to Bengaluru with their grievances. The CM's office also directed the Deputy Commissioners to hold Jatana Darshan in one taluk in their district once in 15 days.

KCR bats for resolution of Krishna row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hyderabad

MAKING his latest pitch for the resolution of the long-standing Krishna water-sharing issue, Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao on Saturday blamed the Union government for not referring the matter to the Krishna Tribunal for '10 long years'.

Daring the BJP State leadership to convince Prime Minister Narendra Modi to get the Centre to do so if they had "any shame", he asked them why the Union government had been so indecisive in the matter.

Appealing to the residents of Andhra Pradesh, he made it clear that Telangana was not interested in taking away their share in Krishna waters, and that it only wanted its due share to live and prosper.

With the click of a switch, the chief minister released Krishna waters from one of the pumps located at the Narlapur pump house in Kollapur mandal, Nagarkurnool district, marking the beginning of the Palamuru-Rangareddy Lift Irrigation Scheme's (PRLIS) first phase rollout. Amid Vedic chants, he performed pooja at the delivery cistern outlet after unveiling the PRLIS pylon near the Narlapur intake well.

Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao clicks a switch to release water from a pump

Addressing a public meeting at Singotam Cross Roads in Kollapur town later, he declared that his goal was to see 20 lakh acres of land getting irrigated in the five districts of Palamuru region.

He believed that his life's purpose had been fulfilled with the completion of PRLIS, envisioning Telangana as a 'piece of diamond' that would nourish the entire nation once PRLIS and the Sitarama project were completed, in addition to the already operational Kaleshwaram Lift Irrigation Project.

Without explicitly naming the Congress, BJP, or their respective leaders from the Palamuru region, the chief minister pointed out that the project could have been completed three to four years earlier if not for obstructions from "useless local politicians" and a lack of cooperation from the Centre.

Subsequently, he took a digat TDP chief and former chief minister N Chandrababu Naidu, currently incarcerated in Rajamahendravaram Central Jail, attributing the delay in Palamuru region projects to him. He questioned Naidu's failure to develop the erstwhile Mahbubnagar district, which he had adopted during his tenure as chief minister of the undivided Andhra Pradesh, and enquired about the fate of his claims regarding "united state and integrated development".

"I recall that even though former chief minister Anjaiah had laid the foundation stone for the Jurala project in 1981, it was only after I advocated on behalf of the people of the region in 2001 that the canal works were finally completed," he stated.

"Today, my heart brims with the same joy I felt when the Telangana Bill passed in Parliament," he remarked, highlighting the completion of the pump houses and reservoirs under PRLIS.

Nipah scare: Two under observation in T'Puram

ENS @ T'Puram

TWO persons with Nipah symptoms have been kept under observation in Thiruvananthapuram. One of them is a medical student who returned to the city from her house in Kozhikode recently. She reportedly suffers from high fever and headache.

Another is a woman hailing from Kattakkada. Some of her relatives had recently visited Kozhikode. Both of them have been kept under isolation in a government facility and their condition is stable. Their samples will be tested at the NIV, Pune, and the Institute of Advanced Virology at Thonnakkal in Thiruvananthapuram, said a statement from the health minister's office.

Collector: Avoid travelling to containment zones

KANNUR: District Collector S Chandrasekhar on Saturday urged people to avoid travelling to containment zones in Kozhikode district. He also asked those living in areas that share border with Kozhikode district to avoid attending common public programmes. The appeal was made by the collector following the District Disaster Management Authority meeting held in Kannur. The meeting directed educational institutions in the district to conduct online classes for students coming from the containment zones.

Nipah control room receives over 863 calls so far

Kozhikode: The 24x7 Nipah control room set up at the Government Guest House in Kozhikode to address the concerns of the public regarding the outbreak has received over 863 calls so far. The psycho-social support team under the health department is helping people overcome their fears of Nipah by providing them with mental support.

Good officers not recognised, says BJP MLA

ON Saturday, there was a demonstration, demanding that Vikas Kishor Surulkar be reinstated. KPSC aspirants posted on X, "Respected Ministers, please take back the transfer order of KPSC Secretary Vikas Kishor Suralkar. This is not done. KPSC was getting reformed under him.'' On Friday, too, a group of students and KPSC aspirants demonstrated, seeking his reinstatement.

BJP former minister and MLA S Suresh Kumar said, "KPSC aspirants are shocked. Suralkar, who was introducing innovative steps in his attempt to make KPSC more transparent, accountable and responsive, was transferred. This is how this govt recognises good officers and promotes good practices.'' A post on X alleged that a higher official at KPSC pressured the government to transfer Suralkar.

A source at Vidhana Soudha said, "April, May and June are the regular transfer season. Since this government took over by May-end, transfers started only in June, after the guidelines were issued."

JDS senior leader HD Kumaraswamy had alleged irregularities in transfers and had shown a pen drive that purported to have contained details of the cash-for-transfer scam. Many BJP leaders too had criticised the government over transfers.

BJP MLC Adagur Vishwanath said, "It is true that every government faces pressure to transfer officials. If transfers are done indiscreetly because of pressure from MLAs or party leaders, the administration becomes weak. Obviously, transfers cannot be done throughout the year.''

As per protocol, transfers of senior officials in the revenue and police departments are done through the chief minister, and lower rung officials through ministers.

Ediga seer, min Madhu trade barbs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

EDIGA community seer Pranavananda and community leader and Primary Education Minister Madhu Bangarappa indulged in a political slugfest on Saturday.

Swamiji, who is said to be Congress MLC BK Hariprasad's camp, had alleged that he faced a threat to his life from Madhu Bangarappa's supporters and he will file a complaint with the Bengaluru police commissioner.

He was also upset with Madhu's statement that he is a bogus Swami and his antecedents should be verified.

The seer said, "Ours is appa tradition of becoming swamis, where marriage is permitted."

Targeting Madhu, he said, "What is his contribution to the community except for being the son of former chief minister late S Bangarappa? It's unbecoming of him as a minister to insult me. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah should act against him. I will also write to the Assembly Speaker and Congress leader Rahul Gandhi."

Madhu said, "Let him complain to whoever he wants." He added that he is not against Hariprasad being inducted as a minister in the Siddaramaiah cabinet.

What is his contribution to the community except for being the son of former chief minister late S Bangarappa? It's unbecoming of him as a minister to insult me.

Will clear temple encroachments: Min

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

"Immovable properties of the temples under Muzrai department will be surveyed and the survey process will be recorded. Further, measures will be taken to clear all the encroachments," said Muzrai Minister Ramalinga Reddy. He was speaking after holding a high-level meeting with the top officials of the Muzrai department here on Saturday.

Measures will be taken to install CCTV cameras in all the temples across the state, he said and added that facilities will be made for devotees older than 65 years and those who are physically challenged to avail hassle-free darshan.

He warned the officials that action would be initiated against them if the temple premises and restrooms are not kept clean. He also directed officials to take steps to enable devotees to book rooms and online sevas through mobile apps. Reddy said measures will be taken to ban the sale of tobacco and alcohol from about 100-meter radius of the temple.

HC: Gratuity not bounty that can be withheld at will and whim of employer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court directed the Union Ministry of Health and Family Welfare Services and the Karnataka Department of Health and Family Welfare Services to pay a gratuity of Rs 4.09 lakh with 10 per cent interest per annum to a retired employee.

If the petitioner is not paid the gratuity within days from the date of the receipt of this order, the petitioner will be entitled to a penalty apart from the 10 per cent interest. It will include Rs 1,000 for every day of delay till the money is settled, the court added.

The court passed the order, allowing a petition filed by Babu, who is from Belagavi. He was fighting to get the gratuity that he was supposed to get within a month of his retirement on March 31, 2007.

"It is trite that the gratuity is not a bounty that can be withheld at the sweet will or whim of the employer. The employer is the Secretary of Health and Family Welfare, Government of Karnataka. The state treating its employee of not paying gratuity, a terminal benefit for the last 16 years depicts apathy towards the citizens, particularly of the retired employees, whose voices have become feeble by progression of age and therefore the state does not hear such voices. Thus, callousness is displayed by denying gratuity," Justice M Nagaprasanna observed in the order.

The court also said the state can as well ignore the plea of a citizen for payment of gratuity, as it has nothing to lose, but if an employee whose retirement is dependent on the receipt of terminal benefits, gratuity, of which one, is delayed or denied, he would be condemned to penury, and be driven to impecuniosity, having no money to fall back upon, at the advancing old age.

The petitioner was appointed as a first division clerk at the Postpartum Centre at Jawaharlal Nehru Medical College in 1973. After completing 34 years of service, he retired on attaining the age of superannuation. As the gratuity was not paid in terms of the Payment of Gratuity Act, he approached the Controlling Authority under the Act to determine the gratuity and direct its payment.

Allowing the application in May 2012, the Controlling Authority determined the gratuity to be paid at Rs 4.09 lakh with 10 percent interest per annum from September 2007. This order was neither challenged nor paid the gratuity to the petitioner. Hence, the petitioner moved the high court.

6-day National Children's Theatre fest from Sept 19

MYSURU: Indian Theatre Foundation's Indian Institute of Educational Theatre led by theatre director and activist Prasanna will be organising 'Rastriya Makkala Rangotsava' - National Children's Theatre Festival - from September 19 to 24 in Mysuru. Around 50 plays will be staged in Mysuru, Chamarajanagar and Ramanagara districts during the six-day festival. Sarod maestro Pandit Rajeev Taranath will be inaugurating the theatre festival on Hardwicke PU College premises on Monday. After releasing the festival poster on Saturday, Prasanna said, "Kannada theatres are losing audience. Today, cinemas and television serials have become audience' favourite. Glued to their screens at home, the audience are no longer coming to theatres, forcing theatre artistes to search for employment elsewhere," he said. Thus, we started the Indian Institute of Educational Theatre, said Prasanna. "Through the educational theatre, we want to ignite the imaginative minds of the children to boost their creativity. Also, children can learn our language, culture and vocabulary better through the theatre. Otherwise, they will be limited to learning everything through cellphones," he said. The plays performed by adults for children, by children for children, book fair, educational theatre conference, exchange of ideas on children's literature and mural exhibitions will be a part of the festival.

Patient Advisory Council launched to improve patient safety in hosps

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Consortium of Accredited Healthcare Organisations (CAHO) and Patient for Patient Safety Foundation (PFPSF), on Saturday, launched the 'Patient Advisory Council' to improve the patient safety in hospitals.

Preventable medical errors are a major cause for breach of trust between medical practitioners and patients, explained Dr Alexander Thomas, Founder President, CAHO. Stating that mis-communication is the reason for 70 per cent medical errors in hospitals, Dr Thomas highlighted the need to involve patients as collaborator in the entire treatment process, and help them identify areas of improvement to reduce medical errors too.

Ahead of World Patient Safety Day observed on September 17, the advisory council was launched in Bengaluru on the sidelines of WHO's theme "Engaging Patients for Patient Safety". The council will educate the patients about MRI safety, surgical interventions, anaesthesia, vaccination and geriatric care among other things.

Citing examples of administering improper dosage or wrong blood transfusion, experts said if patients are educated about following instructions in prescriptions, verifying names and expiry dates of medicines, or informed about surgical procedures; it will allow them to intervene at every step, reducing the possibility of a medical error.

A BILLION VOTERS' #2024ELECTIONS: X, Y AND W FACTORS

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
(shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com)

THE 2024 Lok Sabha polls will set a new world record. In what is billed as the world's largest election, an estimated one billion Indians—in a population of 1.431 billion—will be eligible to exercise their democratic right.

Like the festival of democracy is, as yet, a few months away, but the hashtag #2024Elections is already attracting attention. The government's decision to announce a five-day special session of parliament has triggered a fiesta of speculation. The government has released an agenda: a discussion on the parliamentary journey of seventy-five years and a Bill to appoint the new Chief Election Commissioner, among other things. But the opposition parties are not convinced and the cognoscenti suspect that surprises are in store.

Like the X factor setting the trajectory of political sentiments will be unveiled at the special session. Ideas under speculation include reprioritising 'Bharat' over 'India', a uniform civil code Bill, a proposal for 'one nation, one election', a women's reservation Bill, quota for women in government jobs, and submission of the Rohini Commission report has fuelled a buzz on a new OBC quota. Nobody knows for sure. The one predictable facet of the Modi regime has been its ability to spring surprises.

Like the air is thick with hypotheses. One theory is that the move for simultaneous polls is catalysed by an angst about possible outcomes in the assembly polls coming up. The thesis doesn't quite pass Karl Popper's principle of falsification. In the 2018 assembly polls, the Congress won in Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh. In the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, the BJP won twenty-three of the twenty-five seats in Rajasthan, twenty-eight of the twenty-nine in Madhya Pradesh, and nine of the eleven in Chhattisgarh.

Like the received wisdom among the opposition parties is that India's response to the Pulwama terror attack shifted the momentum in 2019. To weigh this, it would be useful to review the verdicts of 1965 and 1999. India decisively won the 1965 war, but in 1967, the Congress tally in the Lok Sabha was down by over seventy-five seats and it was booted out in eight states.

Like you could say immediacy matters. In 1999, India went to the polls following the one-vote defeat of the Vajpayee government in parliament after the Kargil war. Notwithstanding the victory in the war, the BJP's tally remained at the one hundred and eighty-two it had won in 1998. One explanation is the schism within the party in Uttar Pradesh, where its tally slid from fifty-eight to twenty-nine. The Congress, though, tumbled from one hundred and forty-one to one hundred and fourteen seats.

Like history reveals that a confluence of competing factors influence electoral outcomes. The credibility of popular theories is challenged by counterfactuals. It is true that the performance of the economy does inform voters and influence voting intent. But the double-digit growth in 1988 didn't help the Congress in 1989 and liberalisation didn't pay off in 1996; the National Democratic Alliance lost in 2004 despite the India Shining campaign.

Like the Y factor in 2024 will be the youth vote. It is estimated that over 90 million new voters will be eligible next year. Both the Congress and the BJP are wooing the youth because the Y factor matters. The BJP's victory in 2014, the first majority mandate in 25 years, was powered by youth aspirations and Narendra Modi's presentation of the Gujarat model. The 2019 mandate was fuelled by the notion of a decisive government. It is true that pride matters—and the G20 and Chandrayaan successes will catalyse sentiments—there is no disputing aspiration.

Like the angst among the youth about employment and their future has been consistently highlighted in opinion polls. It is illuminated by the quota stirs, the quest for government jobs, and is underlined by the job melas organised by the government. The first-time voter in 2024 would barely know past governments and would lack a reference point. The youngster who first voted in 2014 will be around 28 and will measure his vote on met and unmet expectations. How the youth perceive their circumstances now and how they are likely to vote merits a major opinion poll.

Like the most significant force in 2024 is likely to be the W factor—the woman voter. Women's turnout has zoomed over the last two decades. At the 2019 election, women voters at 67.18 percent outnumbered men at 67.01 percent. What is significant is that women are emerging as the new kingmakers in assembly polls across the country.

Like it is unsurprising that states are racing to launch schemes to transfer money directly to women—the Kalaignar Magalir Urimai Thogai Thittam in Tamil Nadu, the Gruha Lakshmi scheme in Karnataka, and the Ladli Behana scheme in Madhya Pradesh. It is also not a surprise that the Opposition is worried that Modi might modify the mood by stealing a march on women's reservation.

Like there is reason to hope that the MPs will mark seventy-five years of parliamentary democracy with a compelling debate on competing ideas. It will be scarcely surprising, though, if it morphs into a carnival of ricocheting rhetoric.

What is inescapable is that the events of the week will set the tone for #2024Elections.

ATTACKS ON NRIs PUTS US ECONOMY AT RISK

POWER & POLITICS

AMERICA calls itself the Land of the Free. Nothing can be farther from the truth. It is the land of racism and prejudice. Last week, 23-year-old Indian student Jaahnavi Kandula was mowed down by an over-speeding police patrol car driven by a white cop at over 130 kmh. Her body was flung across the road more than 100 feet. Shocking body-cam footage showed the officers mocking her: "Yeah, just write a cheque", "Eleven thousand dollars. She was 26, anyway. She had limited value". And the top-heavy Indian embassy didn't make enough noise.

But the trigger-happy American police, which is supposed to protect and serve, deciding the value of an Indian girl by the colour of her skin provoked global outrage. Indians and Americans of Indian origin are being regularly attacked, humiliated and sometimes murdered by white bigots who want their country to be white, while reaping the benefits Indians bring to their economy. According to a Carnegie Endowment study, one in two Indian Americans reports being discriminated against based on skin colour. America is a country of greed: recall Gordon Gecko's famous line in the blockbuster movie Wall Street, "Greed is good?" American freedom is doublespeak. The Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, which was enacted after the Civil War which freed African slaves, provides that "[n]o State shall... deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws".

The irony is that American presidents, including the hallowed George Washington, kept slaves. Jim Crow laws counted black Americans as three-fifths of a person. The core of American philosophy is aptly represented on the American dollar bill which sports Washington—money is god. A community that pours in enormous amounts of money into American coffers have Indian roots.

The answer to the infuriation of white supremacist Americans lies in the economic and cultural superiority of Indian Americans. Corporate America and India Inc are in sync. The average income of a person of Indian origin is over $100,000 per year, against $75,000 of an American. NRIs wield extraordinary power in the American corporate world, running most of its multi-billion multinational companies: 60 CEOs on the Fortune 500 companies list are Indians—Sundar Pichai, Satya Nadella, Shantanu Narayen, Ajay Banga and more—many of them born in India. Though NRIs are just over one percent of the US population—tech billionaires, doctors, truck drivers—over six percent in federal and local taxes come from their pockets. The combined yearly contribution of the Indian diaspora to the American economy is over $1 trillion, which means every dollar out of 26 dollars is contributed by Indians by race and origin. Every fifth doctor in the US has strong Indian connections. Indians hold important posts in the US government. Half a dozen of them are candidates for president in next year's elections: the US Vice President was born in India.

SOURAV ROY

Previously, while Indians preferred to blend into American society adopting white values and culture, the new generation of Bharatiyas flaunt their success and wealth in style. They own expensive cars, beach homes and villas all over the country. Recently a billboard announcing the 57th birthday of Indian politician Nallari Kishore Kumar Reddy was prominently displayed at the colourful Times Square. Its photo went viral and a social media enthusiast wrote, "Isn't it absolute proof of how Indians consistently bring their distinctive flair to the world stage?" Another humorous post said, "It's no more Times Square. Now it's called 'INDIAN SQUARE'. US President Joe Biden told Swati Mohan, an Indian-origin scientist who oversaw the landing of the Mars rover for NASA, "It's amazing. Indian—of descent—Americans are taking over the country.. You guys are incredible."

Incredible too is the fact that Americans want both Indian money and minds, but not their presence. Too bad. Most American politicians seek financial support from wealthy American Indians. Now they want to hog Indian markets for profit. India is a significant source of US imports. Orders worth over $50 billion have been given to American multinationals during the past few years. Bilateral trade between the two countries has almost doubled to about $128 billion from just $70 billion in 2020-21. If Indian students don't go to the US universities, many of them would be nearly broke, since over $8 billion is spent by Indian students on tuition fees alone annually. Indian tourists are some of the largest spenders in America.

However, India's munificence hasn't changed the genetic deformation of American society. Unfortunately, whites get away with crimes against Indians because the system at the lower level is stacked with poorly educated, resentful people: US Census data records that Indian Americans enjoy a standard of living of about twice that of the median American household—the ratio of Indian Americans with at least a bachelor's degree is double the national average. Many billionaire Indian corporate leaders have studied at American universities and donated millions to them. Unfortunately they aren't able to use their influence on the American establishment to treat Indian Americans as equals.

Moreover, the nexus between the Indian and American establishments is so deep-rooted that they won't allow the agenda to move away from business and economics. Bureaucrats and politicians with loyalty to American values and hidden persuasions have infiltrated every part of Indian society. They have mesmerised middle-class Indians by extolling opportunities in the US to make big money and enjoy better lifestyles, even if it means demeaning themselves. If Americans don't change their self-assumed supremacy complex, they will lose their superpower status sooner than later.

The Statue of Liberty welcomes immigrants with the lines, "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free." The exhortation alluded only to poor whites from Britain and Europe. In 1923, the US Supreme Court ruled that Asian Indians are not eligible for American citizenship though blacks were, being slaves. The American Dream was built on the backs of enslaved Africans whose fingers bled picking cotton in the Deep South and Chinese immigrants who died building railroads. In modern America where DC Comics and Marvel culture is part of popular culture, the real Supermen and Superwomen today come from Indian genes. Their value cannot be measured by writing a cheque, because Indian Americans can write bigger cheques to finance the US economy.

OUR AGEING STARS ARE NOT FADING YET

OPINION

NAMRATA JOSHI
Consulting Editor
(Follow her on X @Namrata_Joshi)

EARLIER this year, in the now-famous post-end credits scene in Siddharth Anand's Pathaan, we saw Shah Rukh Khan in a banter with another star, Salman 'Tiger' Khan, cracking a self-reflexive joke about the creaky bones of Bollywood's aging Khans. He starts off by wondering if the trinity—all touching 58 this year—should think of retiring. He goes on to ask a seminal question: "Hamari jagah lega kaun (Who will replace us?)", and eventually makes the thumping assertion that they are irreplaceable: "Humein hi karna padega. Bachchon par nahin chhod sakte (We will have to do it. We can't leave it to the kids)."

It's as though SRK had anticipated that some of the venerable veterans of Bollywood, like him, would be turning the industry's fortunes around after a long dry spell through the pandemic and after. When you consider that their popularity has been on the decline and they have all been summarily dismissed as fading stars, this comeback itself becomes the stuff of mass cinema.

August and September have emerged as the biggest months for Bollywood box office this year. Ormax Media, the Mumbai-based media consulting firm, suggests that 2023 could well turn out to be the highest-grossing year of all time. All thanks to SRK's Jawan, the 66-year-old Sunny Deol's Gadar 2, the 56-year-old Akshay Kumar's OMG2, and beyond Bollywood, the 72-year-old Rajinikanth's Jailer. SRK, at the last count, had delivered ₹1,050.30 crore gross with Pathaan (according to Bollywood Hungama) and ₹695.67 crore with Jawan; Deol's Gadar 2 had grossed ₹679.69 crore.

Take away these 'golden jubilee' actors, including Ajay Devgn and the soon-to-be-50 Hrithik Roshan, and you would be left with almost no one else to wear the heavy crown of superstardom. A 40-year-old, unreliable Ranbir Kapoor? Or the callow younger bunch in their 30s—Kartik Aryan, Varun Dhawan and Tiger Shroff? Perhaps the 38-year-old Ranveer Singh, with the recent success of Rocky Aur Rani Kii Prem Kahaani (₹346.66 crore) behind him, could make the cut, but industry watchers think he can get too iconoclastic and unorthodox to have a sustained sway over the movie-watching masses.

There is another view to take in from the other side of the screen: the rapidly declining age of the Indian movie-going audience. According to a recent report titled Sizing the Cinema: 2023, the median age of India's theatrical audience has dropped from 27.5 years before the pandemic to 24.1 years . So, more than the impressive crores their films have amassed, what's astonishing is how the boomers and OGs are appealing to the millennials and Gen Z viewers. Many who are flocking to Gadar 2, for instance, weren't born when Gadar: Ek Prem Katha released in 2001. They would not be driven by the nostalgia for the iconic handpump scene or the "Dhai kilo ka haath (Two-and-a-half-kilo hand)" dialogue. Moreover, main man Sunny Deol has hardly been active in recent years to have caught their eye. Yet, Gadar 2 is a Sunny Deol blockbuster, not the success of Utkarsh Sharma (who plays his son). Similarly, it's the senior SRK, the cigar-smoking, rock-loving Captain Vikram Rathore, who trumps over the younger SRK, his son Azad, in Jawan. Even when one of his young compatriots in the film calls him "uncle", his charming reaction sweeps the audience off the floor.

This has turned out to be a big year for Indian box office. Most of the money has come in for films starring the 58-year-old Shah Rukh Khan, 72-year-old Rajinikanth and 66-year-old Sunny Deol

The title of Jawan doesn't just invoke the Indian soldier but plays with the idea of youth, too. An awareness of the march of time and a simultaneous disregard for it informs the film. When Azad hijacks a Mumbai metro train and is called "buddha (old man)" by a cop, he takes off the bandages on his head, wraps them around the officer's head and shouts as he age-shames him: "Buddha hoga tera baap (Your father must be an old man)."

The 'Zinda Banda' anthem is another of SRK's ways of asserting his far-from-old stardom. As is his conscious attempt to pull out an ageing colleague—Salman in Pathaan and Sanjay Dutt in Jawan—to underscore the solidarity with them in their evergreen, never-say-die star appeal. SRK's overt political statements aside, you can't get away from his messaging on dotage and reinventing a supposedly fading stardom.

It's the generational, father-son theme which stands out even more in the outings of Khan and Deol. "He (the son) is Simba, this (the father) is Mufasa," goes a line in Jawan referring to The Lion King. The dialogue "Bete ko haath lagaane se pehle baap se baat kar (Before you touch the son, deal with his father)" could have been roared as effectively by Tara Singh when he returns to Pakistan to rescue Jeete, his imprisoned son, and single-handedly gets the better of the entire Pakistan army in Gadar 2.

It must be noted that in this remarkable success of senior superstars, women continue to have no place. We must notice that the year's films are all built on the typical, massy formula of scale, spectacular action, and machismo. Even the women-friendly romantic persona of SRK has fallen in line and turned into an all-out action hero, with six-pack abs and rippling muscles. Tiger 3 and Dunki are up next. Will they stick to this successful recipe? For now, Bollywood is thriving again, even if not in all the ways we hope for.

Welfare woes

As welfare schemes bring electoral dividends, governments will be tempted to increase them even if they do not have sufficient revenues. The welfare schemes will be at the expense of capital expenditures, resulting in slowing the progress of the state. In some cases, they become bankrupt too.

Dharmarajan A K, Thalassery

Sanatana concepts

Sanatana scriptures being mostly in Sanskrit and the language, like any other classical language, having its own logic, grammar and many peculiarities, it would not be proper to interpret its cardinal concepts like varna and karma according to one's own whims and fancies. And all these tall talks of eradication of an ancient dharma without a sound knowledge about them would only land one in trouble.

G Nataraja Perumal, Elathur

Soaring high

India is growing by leaps and bounds in science and technology and ISRO is a driving force. There is no doubt that the West will always downplay India's potential in R&D and the recent comments of Ukrainian advisor Mykhailo Podolyak mentioning the "low intellectual potential" of Indians is a testimony to this. The organisation's spectacular feat of successfully implementing complex missions with comparatively little funds is a slap in the face for the developed nations. Its scientific innovations such as remote sensing technology help crores of Indians.

Legal recourse

In India nobody is above the law. When courts have given permission to reprimand former CM of Andhra Pradesh, Chandrababu Naidu, why should his party workers take the protests to the streets? It is nothing but contempt of court. When Naidu has engaged a senior advocate of the Supreme Court and the courts have not permitted bail, it means there may be evidence against him. Better Naidu should ask his people to proceed legally than on the streets.

Anchors ahoy

The boycott of some TV Anchors by the INDIA alliance for their biased approach on TV shows is a knee-jerk reaction. But it is necessary to ensure that the debates are free, fair, unbiased and uninfluenced by the government of the day in any manner. Nowadays, TV debates have degenerated into slanging matches and these anchors always back the ruling party spokespersons, irrespective of the merits of their arguments. It is not desirable in any thriving democracy.

Uncivil speech

At the Kerala State Film Awards ceremony, actor Alencier made sexist remarks on a female statuette presented to him. He suggested sarcastically against 'tempting' male awardees with women figurines, and instead suggested that 'masculine' statuettes be presented. The unapologetic actor is looking at womanhood as an object. This is not free speech, but uncivility deserving condemnation in the strongest terms.

Women power

This morning when our maid came to do the chores, she informed us with happiness and with moist eyes that the amount of 1,000 announced by the Tamil Nadu government has already been credited to her account. She is a 40-year-old widow with two children and was struggling to make ends meet with her meagre earnings as a maid. She said this monthly dole is a great blessing to her and will help mitigate her poverty to a larger extent and profusely thanked Chief Minister M K Stalin with motherly affection. We are very happy that the scheme has reached one of the most deserving beneficiaries.

Oppn sceptical on special House session agenda

Says government is keeping cards close to its chest and real intent is yet to be revealed; session to begin on September 18

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

THE suspense and debates over the agenda of the special session of Parliament continues ahead of the all-party meeting being called by the government on Sunday. The Opposition believes that the government is keeping the cards close to its chest and the real intent is yet to be revealed. The five-day session is set to begin from September 18-22.

The government put to rest speculations on Thursday by releasing a tentative list of business. Though the government says it is playing by the book, speculations on the introduction of Bills such as the Uniform Civil Code (UCC), Women's Reservation Bill, and 'One Nation, One Poll', a Bill to change the name 'India' to 'Bharat' and the OBC quota are still doing the rounds.

Adding to the speculations, Congress MP Shashi Tharoor on Saturday said that the government might advance the elections. "We hope that the elections are in the usual time, which is 6-9 months away. But it is also possible that the government might advance the elections as we have been hearing. We need to be prepared sooner rather than later," he said.

Trinamool Congress' Rajya Sabha MP Derek O'Brien wrote on X, "After all the speculation. Finally, here is the real reason. Parliament Special Session was called to celebrate PM Narendra Modi's 73rd birthday on September 17. A week-long birthday celebration from September 18-22," he wrote.

Earlier, O'Brien had expressed concerns that the government may be keeping some agenda under the wraps and unexpected decisions may be made as the session begins. "The agenda has still not been announced and I say this because in the list of business, they have written a very sinister line, saying this is not the exhaustive list of business. The government will be up to dirty tricks and they can add some business last minute," he said.

The session is likely to see the proceedings of Parliament moving from the old building to the new one. The tentative list of Bills that would be taken up includes the Advocates (Amendment) Bill, the Press and Registration of Periodicals Bills, the Post Office Bill, and the appointment of Chief Election Commissioner and other election commissioners.

Congress leader Jairam Ramesh called it 'much ado about nothing'. He said this could have waited till the Winter session in November. "I am sure the legislative grenades are being kept up their sleeves to be unleashed at the last moment as usual."

CPM MP John Brittas echoed the view. "Since the listed agenda could have been discussed in the winter session, more people have started asking why this exercise is actually for. Maybe Modi has something to shock the opposition," he said.

INDIA bloc's first public rally in Bhopal called off

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

THE much-awaited first public rally of the opposition INDIA bloc, slated to be held in the capital of poll-bound Madhya Pradesh in the first week of October, is cancelled, state Congress president Kamal Nath informed journalists in Bhopal on Saturday.

A short while ago, while addressing a press conference about the party's 15-days-long Jan Akrosh Yatras (starting on September 19), the party's national general secretary in-charge for the poll-bound state, Randeep Singh Surjewala, had said that it was yet to be decided whether the first public rally of the INDIA bloc will be held in Bhopal or somewhere else. "It is still being discussed between Congress national president Mallikarjun Kharge and leaders of other parties in the alliance," he had said.

India is a country of Sanatan Dharma, but has the BJP become an agency of a particular religion?

Kamal Nath, Congress leader

Meanwhile, Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan on Saturday claimed that the opposition rally has been cancelled out of fear of the growing public ire over the alliance leaders' anti-Sanatan Dharma remarks. "People across the country are angry over the anti-Sanatan Dharma remarks of the alliance's leaders. People in MP are hurt and angry over the equating of Sanatan Dharma with dengue, malaria and corona," he said.

Earlier at the press meet, speaking on the row over remarks of the DMK leaders and the PM's scathing attack on the opposition over it, Kamal Nath said, "India is a country of Sanatan Dharma, but has the BJP become an agency of a particular religion? By raking up this issue, the BJP wants to divert the public attention from basic and real issues, just like it did in 2019 general elections through diversionary tactics of nationalism and surgical strikes."

UDHAYANIDHI STALIN

LIGHT-HEARTED ACTOR AT THE EYE OF A NATIONAL STORM

S KUMARESAN & J SANTHOSH

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

UNTIL recently, Udhayanidhi Stalin was apolitical newbie. A lighthearted Kollywood actor who engaged in playful banter with rival politicians. But his recent comments on Sanatana Dharma have put him under national spotlight and he has become the pivot of the BJP's campaign to taint the Congress-led opposition bloc as "anti-Hindu".

In Tamil Nadu politics, dissent against the age-old traditions of Sanatana Dharma is at least a century old. Perhaps, that's why when Udhayanidhi made the comments on September 2, the news died, reduced to single column in a few newspapers.

But after BJP's IT cell chief Amit Malviya uploaded the clips of his speech on social media, Udhayanidhi became national news in a few hours. Starting from Home Minister Amit Shah, several BJP and other right-wing outfit leaders launched trenchant attacks on Udhayanidhi for likening Sanatana Dharma to "malaria & dengue". The reactions surprised people who knew Tamil Nadu politics as leaders like Thol Thirumavalan have been making even more strident criticisms on Sanatana Dharma for decades.

NEWSMAKER

Of course, with Lok Sabha polls around the corner, BJP was only too eager to consolidate its vote base. Also, BJP has been particularly targeting DMK in recent months more than any other regional party of the INDIA bloc.

PM Modi and Shah have repeatedly picked DMK for their broadside against dynastic politics and corruption. Though DMK doesn't have electoral heft outside TN, political observers say the party's ideological moorings and the role it plays in the Congress-led alliance make it easy for BJP to use it as a cat's paw to exploit and paint the opposition alliance as "anti-Hindu". Udhayanidhi's comments and the national brouhaha it has triggered can be understood only against this backdrop. The actor-turned-politician, who continued to assert his position, too, soon tempered down by claiming that he spoke against regressive practices in all religions and not just Hinduism.

Where does this all leave Udhayanidhi? A section in the DMK feels the controversy has inadvertently achieved what the party leadership wanted -- establish Udhayanidhi as the next strong face of the party. The 47-year-old had bypassed several steps to become a minister in his short political life because of his surname. He was sent across the state to campaign for the DMK-led alliance during the 2019 elections. When the party-led alliance won the elections, Udhyanidhi was appointed as the DMK youth wing secretary, a position held by his father, MK Stalin, for 40 years.

Two years later, he emerged as the party's star campaigner in the 2021 Assembly poll and won from his grandfather's seat of Chepauk-Thiruvallikeni.

Inside the Assembly, he occupied a seat strategically positioned behind CM, ensuring that he was in every frame of the picture or video of his father. Several members of the House spent half their allotted time in showering accolades on the first-time MLA.

In his earlier days in the assembly, he was visibly reluctant to accept the respect of party seniors, and being called 'chinnavar' (junior leader) by fellow MLAs. Later, he embraced the title and justified that by saying that since he was junior to them, they were calling him chinnavar. His other titles include 'Ilam Gnayiru' or young sun, a clear reference to the party's symbol rising-sun.

At the helm of the movie production house, Red Giant Movies, which dominates the Tamil film market, Udhayanidhi has acted in two movies on caste-centric themes in the last two years.

During the Odisha train tragedy, he led the team from the state to rescue Tamils struck there. He is spearheading the protest against NEET and his strong comments on Governor RN Ravi have raised eyebrows.

Unlike his father who took nearly 17 years to become a minister after being elected MLA in 1989, the son may not be ready to cool his heels. While Udhayanidhi's promotion has been too quick, the BJP's attempts to ensnare the INDIA alliance around his Sanatana Dharma comments seem to have taken him beyond Tamil Nadu's borders.

Will this episode harm the poll prospects? DMK has little reason to worry as TN voters have been voting for the party clearly knowing its ideology. Negative impact, if any, could be limited to northern states.

Artillery regiment takes a cue from Russia-Ukraine war

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

INDIAN Army's top brass not only has picked up multiple lessons from the ongoing Russia-Ukraine conflict but have also incorporated them into the future capability plans.

Elaborating on it, sources in the military establishment said that the ongoing conflict reaffirmed the role of firepower, "while Russians fired around 20,000 shells a day, Ukrainians fired around 5,000 shells."

"Firepower is a battle-winning factor and the role of long range vectors (rockets) and terminally guided munitions have emerged. Thus, we need to have a judicious mix of rockets and guns in our inventory," the officer said, adding, "We also need to have more terminally guided munitions."

Battlefield transparency is another aspect the Army has analysed that it should to work about, he said. "Time between acquiring and engaging targets has decreased from about 10 minutes to about 2 minutes, thus requiring a better kill chain. The war has also taught us about adopting measures for force preservation from counter bombardment of the guns. And with the way we are raising infrastructure, we are doing well," he added.

Prolonged operations have driven the fact that we need to be prepared for long-drawn wars and fight them with indigenous systems. In addition, we need to have capability surge for arms and armaments through indigenous means.

It was in February 2022 that the Russia-Ukraine conflict unfolded, which has seen the use of conventional weapons for a stretched out period.

Lessons emerged, being incorporated in artillery doctrines and capability plans.

The Regiment of Artillery is said to be the second largest arm of the Indian Army, after the infantry. Artillery, with its missiles, guns, mortars, rocket launchers and unmanned aerial vehicles, is also described as an 'Arm of Decision'.

RSS concerned about situation in Manipur

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

THE Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) on Saturday expressed concern over the situation in violence-hit Manipur. Address the media after its three-day coordination meet in Pune, RSS joint general secretary Manmohan Vaidya said: "The situation in Manipur is worrisome. It has to be essentially sorted out by the government," he said, adding RSS volunteers are continuously in touch with both Meiteis and Kukis to remove the wedge between the two communities created by trust deficit.

On the raging controversy over Sanatana Dharma's criticism by DMK leader Uhhayanidhi Stalin, he said those who say them want to eradicate it should first know meaning of the term. "Santana Dharma does not mean religion. Sanatana civilisation is a spiritual democracy," he said.

Asked for his comment on the controversy over the proposed name change of the country, he said, "It must be called Bharat. That name has civilisational value." About the Sangh's stand on reservation, he said "Our society has deprived the SC and STs of respect, facilities and education for ages. To take them together, there is a Constitution-backed reservation. We support it. All other demands for reservation are political."

Gita Mehta, noted writer & sister of Odisha CM, passes away in Delhi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

GITA MEHTA
1943 - 2023

THE daughter of the late Biju Patnaik, a key figure of federalist and Third Front politics, and the elder sister of Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik, Gita Mehta belonged to the 'first family' of Odisha but carved her own identity as a writer. She hit the spotlight first with Karma Kola and Snakes and Ladders in the '70s, then with her short story collection, a River Sutra, in 1993, one of the first Indo-Anglian literary works to be internationally considered a cult work before the genre came to be known as such. She passed away at her residence in Delhi on Saturday. She was 80.

The tug of war between purity and passion was at the core of Sutra but Mehta, dealt with it in her characteristic tragic-comic way and the book, as suits a sutra, is filled with wise sayings. The book is considered representional of Indian culture and also has a dual vision, factoring in how the West sees it. It maps a wide terrain through its portrayal of music, religion, and major cultural landmarks with the story set in mid-to-late 20th century India and around the Narmada in central India.

In 2019, she was conferred Indian's fourth-highest civilian honour, the Padma Shri, by the BJP government for her contribution in the field of literature and education, an honour she "politely declined" as its timing could be "misconstrued" in an election year.

In interviews to the media she said she was prompted to do so "thinking of my brother, not wishing to cause him any embarrassment at a sensitive time — or even face accusations that nepotism might have been brought to bear to get me the award". Mehta was known for her detachment to institutional honours. When questioned about what she thought of awards in general she said the process was subjective: "For example, why Ravi Shankar, but not Vilayat Khan for the Bharat Ratna?" She was married to, Sonny Mehta, a former head of the Alfred A Knopf publishing house.

Narendra Modi: The Man leading the Resurgence of Bharat's 'Dharma Yuga'

SHRI MADHUKARANATH
Spiritual Leader

BHARAT has always been the epicenter of knowledge that lies beyond the normal realms of science and technology. A millennium of foreign rule and colonialism has surely played its role as some of the most prominent institutes were destroyed, never to be resurrected until recently. The significance of 'Desh, Kaal, Paristhiti' has always been illustrated in the sacred texts and it has become evident as we are seeing a clear shift in the overall approach towards dharma that began 10 years back. From the geo-political aspect to our foreign policies, integration of 'Bhartiya bodh', the emphasis on being 'us' has made a tremendous impact on the way we see ourselves and how the world views Bharat.

It would be ignorant to assume that a strong leadership and stable government trusted by millions of people from diverse backgrounds did not play the most pivotal role in this uprising. Under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Bharat has been the most awakened state of 21st century. The political will power is only the surface beneath which lies a plethora of faith in the divinity of this nation. Modi has outperformed in every aspect, making India the leading democracy in spirituality, technology and economy.

Modi has successfully done what no other PM could have done in uniting the nation under various pretexts. With the inauguration of Kashi Tamil Sangamam, two major centres of culture and civilisation were brought together, eradicating the north-south divide. His most admirable efforts involved the respectful evacuation of three Shri Guru Granth Sahib swaroops and the Afghan Sikhs from Kabul. The PM also declared December 26 2022, to be observed as 'Veer Baal Diwas' in remembrance of the four sons of the 10th Sikh Guru Gobind Singh executed by the Mughals. This was a long overdue and historic move.

PM MODI IS NOT JUST A SPIRITUAL AND SCIENTIFIC LEADER; HE'S A STAUNCH ADVOCATE FOR WOMEN'S RIGHTS, EXEMPLIFIED BY HIS STAND AGAINST SOCIAL INJUSTICES LIKE TRIPLE TALAQ. HIS COMMITMENT TO GENDER EQUALITY IS EVIDENT IN HIS FAMOUS ASSERTION THAT "BHARAT IS STRONG BECAUSE ITS BETIYAN (DAUGHTERS) ARE STRONG."

Construction and inauguration of the new Parliament building brought back memories of the golden age of Bharat, the historical importance of 'Sengol' connecting us with our roots was a moment cherished by the country. Our nation has given the world some concepts that were unimaginable to the West. It would not be superlative to claim that much of our ancient knowledge has been the foundation of notable concepts and scientific research. However, its realisation has been obliterated for centuries and only recently has it been making its way back into our conscious realities.

The construction of the Ram temple at Ram Janmabhoomi, the restoration of the Kashi Vishwanath Corridor, and the creation of the Ujjain Mahakal Corridor have illuminated significant facets of our ancient history. The repatriation of numerous ancient Indian artifacts serves as a profound tribute to our heritage and stands as a symbolic apology from various nations.

The G20 Summit success revealed how Bharat's culture, diversity and civilisation are resurging. The thought behind special gift hampers to the G20 Heads of State and Leaders, showcasing Bharat's rich cultural heritage and natural beauty also needs to be appreciated. The hampers that included a khadi scarf, a Zighrana Ittar, etcmarked the testament of Bharat's traditional crafts.

Even during his earlier state visits, PM Modi had gifted Bhartiya handlooms and artifacts to state heads. From Bidri pair of Surahi (pots) from Telangana to South African President during the BRICS summit, to eco-friendly lab-grown 7.5-carat diamond, placed in an exquisite Kashmiri papier-mâché box to First lady of US, the unique gifting custom paved a way for Bhartiya art being showcased at the top level.

Over the past nine years, PM Modi has consistently centred his leadership on the unification of India's spiritual heritage with its unity. Rooted in his unwavering commitment to his dharma, he has initiated many programmes that reflect his singular focus, i.e., a strategic drive to guide India towards a brighter future with enhanced opportunities.

With initiatives, including the International Yoga Day and the International Year of Millets programme, Modi has proven to be a leader who is attached to his roots. Notably, it is under his leadership that Bharat has created a strong pinnacle on the global stage by becoming the world's 5th largest economy.

An August 23, 2023, Bharat scripted history in the course of the Lunar mission. Every Bhartiya was glued to phones and TVs. At 6.04 PM IST, when Bharat scripted history on the moon — the country's PM had tears in his eyes. Albeit miles away, in Johannesburg, attending the BRICS Summit, he couldn't shy away from showing the world how proud he was of the nation's success. It was, after all, under his prime ministership that India created history — not just by reaching the moon, but a week later starting a mission to study the Sun — Aditya L1.

PM Modi is not just a spiritual and scientific leader; he's a staunch advocate for women's rights, exemplified by his stand against social injustices like triple talaq. His commitment to gender equality is evident in his famous assertion that "Bharat is strong because its betiyan (daughters) are strong."

As Bharat bravely fought the COVID-19 pandemic, it was PM's personal agenda to make sure that Indians were safe first while also providing a helping hand to other nations. His citizens, his duty always stand first and the reflection of a self-made leader is visible in his assertion of leading Bharat to become Akhand Bharat soon. He has proven the test of time as a leader who has taken his country not just on the global stage, but onto a path to find what lies beyond, too.

Nath front-runner for Cong CM post in poll-bound MP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

THE prime opposition Congress party made it crystal clear on Saturday that state party chief and former CM Kamal Nath will be the chief minister if the Congress is voted to power in Madhya Pradesh in the coming assembly polls.

However, it will be decided by the party's central election committee (CEC) whether Nath will contest the assembly polls himself or prefer the bye-elections route like in May 2019.

Importantly, Nath as state party chief, hadn't contested the 2018 assembly polls, but was sworn in as the CM, after the Congress returned to power in the state after 15 years with the support of four independent legislators, two BSP MLAs and the lone SP MLA in December 2018.

It was five months later that he was elected to the 230-members MP Vidhan Sabha in May 2019 from his pocket-borough Chhindwara Lok Sabha constituency's Chhindwara assembly segment by 25,000-plus votes. The seat was won in 2018 polls by his loyalist Deepak Saxena, who later vacated it to pave passage for Nath's election from there.

When questioned as to who'll be the CM, if the party wins the assembly polls in MP, the Congress national general secretary in-charge for the poll-bound state Randeep Singh Surjewala responded while pointing towards Nath seated next to him, "Can't you see it, who."

Surjewala also maintained that it was yet to be decided whether the first public rally of the I.N.D.I.A bloc will be held in Bhopal or somewhere else. "It's still being discussed between Kharge and leaders representing other partner parties of the alliance. Once something is decided, we'll tell you."

Sworn as CM in '18

Shah takes on Nitish on home turf

Home minister slams INDIA bloc, says NDA will win all 40 Lok Sabha seats in Bihar in 2024

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

AGAINST the backdrop of the opposition bloc INDIA coordination committee holding its first meeting recently and declaring to contest polls together, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Saturday said the opposition parties have come together under a new alliance as United Progressive Alliance (UPA) became "synonymous for corruption".

"The UPA had become synonymous with scams and corruption so they made a new alliance with a new name. They worked under the name of UPA and indulged in corruption worth Rs 12 lakh crore. Lalu Prasad [RJD supremo] did corruption worth crores while he was a railway minister," Shah alleged while addressing 'Lok Sabha Pravas' programme' held in Jhanjharpur of Bihar's Madhubani district.

Alleging that the opposition has been hurting the religious sentiments of people, Shah said, "People of this new alliance disrespect Ramcharitmanas. They canceled holidays on the occasion of Rakshabandhan and Janmashtami. They also link 'Sanatana Dharma' with many diseases. All they can do is nothing but appeasement". In Bihar where Chief Minister Nitish Kumar broke the alliance with the BJP and formed a new government by joining Mahagathbandhan (Congress, RJD and other parties), Shah claimed that the National Democratic Alliance would make a new record in the upcoming general elections by winning all the 40 Lok Sabha seats.

In 2019, NDA had won 39 seats, with BJP bagging 17. Calling Mahagathbandhan "opportunistic", the union minister said that the law and order situation in Bihar has "worsened". "The law and order situation is deteriorating day-by-day and the presence of grand alliance will make the situation even more worse," he alleged.

Claiming that only the Narendra Modi-led government can control the rising crime, Shah alleged that if Modi fails to get re-elected in 2024, the entire Mithilanchal region would become a den of 'ghushpaithiye' (intruders).

He said newspapers are full of stories of kidnapping, docoities, killing of journalists and Dalits in Bihar. "This selfish 'mahagathbandhan' is once again taking Bihar towards 'jungle raaj'," he alleged. Comparing Lalu-Nitish Kumar's coalition to "water and oil", he claimed that they [JD-U and RJDJ can never remain together for long. He said that Lalu want to make his son chief minister while Nitish wished to be the Prime Minister.

"But their wishes will never come true as Modi ji will become prime minister once again in 2024," Shah declared.

Shah, who reached the venue by a chopper he took at Darbhanga, credited the Modi government for the airport at the north Bihar town and said an allocation of Rs 1,200 crore has been made to upgrade the one at Patna.

He blamed the state government for the stalling of construction of AIIMS at Darbhanga "which would have made Bihar a state with more than one such hospital [[after Patna]".

"The Nitish Kumar government had allotted a tract of land that was unsuitable for the project. Moreover, they have now taken the entire 81 acres back", alleged Shah.

Reacting to Shah's allegation, JD(U) minister Sanjay Kumar Jha said that the site for the proposed AIIMS in Darbhanga was the most suitable one.

"The construction of AIIMS in Darbhanga at the selected site will play an important role in the development of the town," Jha, who comes of the Mithilanchal region, said.

AC tram services for pandal visitors

In a first, the state government has drawn up a plan to take visitors to some of the Kolkata's Durga Puja pandals in air-conditioned trams. "This is the first time the state has decided to run tram services for pandal visitors. This will be a leisurely rise for those who want to soak in the city's vibrant spirit during the Puja," said transport minister Snehasish Chakraborty. The usual puja special sides on other modes of transport will be there too. The trams will leave Esplanade for Shyambazar and take visitors to some of the prominent pujas in north Kolkata.

Terminal points for long-distance buses

The state transport department has submitted before the Calcutta High Court a list of places where terminal points for long-distance buses can be set up if the Esplanade terminus is closed down. The places on the list are Santragachi bus terminus, Foreshore Road in Howrah, a piece of land belonging to the Hooghly River Bridge Commissioners (HRBC) under Vidyasagar Setu, Duke Road in Howrah's Shibpur and plots adjacent to the depots of North Bengal State Transport Corporation, South Bengal State Transport Corporation in Kolkata and Howrah bus depot. The HC is hearing a plea by environment activist Subhas Dutta alleging that state is yet to execute the order.

First meet of simultaneous polls panel on September 23

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE first official meeting of the high level committee on 'one nation, one election', chaired by former President Ram Nath Kovind, will take place on September 23.

It means no bill on simultaneous polls would be tabled in the special session of Parliament scheduled for September 18-22, despite rumour mills suggesting otherwise. However, it does not extinguish speculation on the Modi government looking to initiate the process of holding simultaneous elections to the Lok Sabha and state assemblies at the earliest.

The government had on September 2 notified an eight-member committee to look into the matter with Kovind as it head. Its members include home minister Amit Shah, senior advocate Harish Salve, former LS secretary general Subhash Kashyap, chairman of the 15th Finance Commission N K Singh, former CVC Sanjay Kothari and former leader of the opposition in Rajya Sabha Ghulam Nabi Azad. Though Congress leader in LS Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury was named as a member, he refused to join it and called it an 'eyewash'.

Free LPG, ration & financial help for flood-hit families, says Sukhu

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE Himachal Pradesh government has decided to provide free LPG kits, including cylinder, hot plate, atta, rice, pulses, mustard and refined oil, salt and sugar till March 31, 2024 to flood-hit families to alleviate their sufferings.

The government has also initiated efforts to relocate affected families from relief camps to more suitable rented accommodations, providing financial assistance of ₹₹5,000 and ₹10,000 for rural and urban areas, respectively.

Chief minister Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu said kits will include a LPG cylinder, pressure regulator, hot plate, suraksha pipe and cover all associated expenses, including the cost of LPG domestic refill and the Blue book. The government is committed to ensuring that disaster-affected families have access to essential cooking facilities without any financial burden, he added. According to the chief minister, this essential ration package will consist of 20 kg of wheat atta, 15 kg of rice, 3 kg of pulses, 1 litre of Mustard oil, 1 litre of Soya refined oil, 1 kg of double fortified salt and 2 kg of sugar.

This provision of free ration will continue till March 31 next year, ensuring that families have access to basic food necessities, he added.

The responsibility for proper distribution of essential supplies to families residing in hired accommodations falls upon the designated District Controller of Food, Civil Supplies and Consumer Affairs (DCFSC) and Food Inspector.

Sukhu said that these initiatives underscore the state government's commitment to empathise with and support disaster-affected families during these challenging times. It serves as a testament to the government's dedication to providing immediate relief and assistance when it is needed the most. The CM said the state would spare no stone unturned in reaching out to the affected.

Land acquisition protests against Kedarnath Master Plan gain momentum

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

ALL markets in and around Kedarnath Dham in Rudraprayag district remained closed on Saturday over a protest call by outfits–'Panda Purohit Samaj' and 'Vyapar Mandal'– against the land acquisition process by the state government for the Kedarnath Master Plan.

Owing to the strike, hundreds of pilgrims faced problems as even eateries and tea shops remained closed.

Traders in Badrinath also organised a bandh but on a different issue.

This is the first time since the 2013 Kedarnath disaster that markets were closed during the peak yatra season.

According to reports, protesters are unhappy with the ongoing redevelopment of the area which was severely destructed from rainfall and flash floods. They are demanding the ownership of their property which was destroyed during calamity and now new construction has come in its place.

However, the temple committee did not support the strike and claimed that the redevelopment started only after a detailed discussion with all stakeholders.

Panda Purohit Samaj and Vyapar Mandal protest in Kedarnath Dham

"The strike illogical as many have already taken compensation for their houses destroyed," a senior priest told this newspaper.

Meanwhile, a shopkeeper near Badrinath Dham got into an argument with some local youths over a purchase, following which the shopkeeper allegedly fired in the air from his licensed pistol.

"An FIR has been registered against the accused shopkeeper Vineet Saini and a letter has been written to the Haridwar administration to cancel his license from where his revolver license was issued", Circle Officer Pramod Shah said.

Tourists to pay extra in reserve forests

Tourists to reserve forests across West Bengal will have to pay extra to avail of various services as the forests reopened for them on September 16. An order issued by Bengal's principal chief conservator of forest (wildlife) mentioned revised charges for guides, the elephant safari and others. The new charges are effective September 16. As to the order, the rate for a guide for a group of tourists is now a uniform ₹350 for all forests of north Bengal, including national parks such as Gorumara and Jaldapara, the Buxa Tiger Reserve.

In a 1st, 'milk parlour' comes up in Arunachal

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

A first-of-its-kind yak "milk parlour" has come up in Arunachal Pradesh with the help of ICAR-National Research Centre Yak (ICAR-NRCY) which is researching the milk of the bovine species.

The "Nyukmadung Dairy" was set up at the Nyukmadung yak farm of the institute in West Kameng district. It was inaugurated on September 15.

The objective, Dr Mihir Sarkar, director of ICAR-NRCY, said is to conduct capacity-building programmes to train yak keepers, process yak milk to add more value and diversify yak milk products, promote livestock farming and make it more remunerative.

ICAR-NRCY is working on preparing diversified products including designer paneer, yak ghee, dahi, ripened and mozzarella cheese.

Highlighting the qualities of Yak milk, Dr Sarkar said, "Yak milk is creamy, thick, sweetish, fragrant and rich in protein and contains 15.63-19.63 per cent of total solids with 5.29-8.73 fat, 3.45-4.27 protein and 0.64-0.82 ash."

Yak milk is also considered as a naturally-concentrated milk enriched with a higher nutrient density and loaded with omega 3 fatty acids, amino acids and antioxidants, he added.

Moreover, unique amino and fatty acids, high levels of vitamins and specific enzymes, with the beneficial microbes present in yak milk help yak herders to survive in high altitudes.

Recently a "scientists-livestock farmers interactive meet" was conducted, to take inputs from tribals. The farmers were educated about the scopes and prospects of yak milk, the importance of value addition and diversified product preparation, Dr Sarkar said.

Yak plays an important role in the livelihood of highlanders catering to their essential needs through its products – milk, meat, fiber, hide, dung and draft power for transportation.

Yak milk and milk products are the integral components of the diet of these tribals, thriving in a healthy and productive life under extremely hypoxic and harsh environments without supplementation of any vitamins and minerals.

Back to classroom: Didi ropes in IIT, IIM to groom panchayat members

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

IN a first attempt to train and impart management skills to newly elected representatives of gram panchayats, the state panchayat department has signed up with the IIM-Kolkata and IIT-Kharagpur in areas such as management of government finances, time management, transparency, teamwork and office management.

An elaborate training such as this has never been organised for the newly elected office-bearers of the three-tier panchayat system, said an official of the state government.

Sources said the state government initiated the unique move after complaints of financial irregularities against the rural bodies that halted funds from the Centre for major rural development schemes.

Sabhadhipatis and their deputies of all 20 zilla parishads will undergo a four-day residential training at IIM-Kolkata capmpus in Joka. Similarly, Sabhapatis of 345 pabnchayat samitis will undergo a three-day residential training in seven batches with experts' support from the Centre for Rural Development and Innovating and Sustainable Technology of the IIT-Kharagpur.

The training venue will be the BR Ambedkar Institute of Panchayat and Rural Development in Kalyani.

Training for the 3,25,341 elected representatives, including office-bearers of 3,300 odd gram panchayats will be imparted at the state, district and block levels by the Society for Training and Research on Panchayat and Rural Development, under the administrative control of panchayat department.

The training is said to be significant in the backdrop of the Centre's decision to stop funds to Bengal under several rural development schemes alleging financial irregularities.

An official of the panchayat department said the findings of central teams revealed many gram panchayats did not follow norms while spending funds under 100 days' job scheme which amounted to misappropriation.

"This is why training on financial prudence is important when many functionaries have been elected for the first time," he said.

Complaints of financial irregularities

Sources said the state government initiated the unique move after complaints of financial irregularities against the rural bodies that halted funds from the Centre for major rural development schemes. An elaborate training such as this has never been organised for the newly elected office-bearers of the three-tier panchayat system, said an official of the state government.

Pakistan court objects to reopening case of Bhagat Singh's sentencing

LAHORE

A Pakistani court on Saturday raised an objection on a plea to reopen the case of Independence war hero Bhagat Singh's sentencing in 1931 and to set it aside by exercising the principles of review and honour him with posthumous state awards.

Singh was hanged by the British rulers on March 23, 1931, along with his comrades Rajguru and Sukhdev after being tried under charges of hatching a conspiracy against the British regime. Singh was initially jailed for life but was later sentenced to death.

"The Lahore High Court (LHC) on Saturday raised an objection to reopen the Bhagat Singh case and constitution of a larger bench for its early hearing. The court objected that petition is not maintainable for the constitution of a larger bench," Advocate Imtiaz Rashid Qureshi, chairman of the Bhagat Singh Memorial Foundation and one of the petitioners, told PTI.

Qureshi said that the petition of a panel of senior lawyers of which he is part has been pending in the LHC for a decade. "Justice Shujaat Ali Khan in 2013 had referred the matter to the chief justice for the constitution of a larger bench, since then it has been pending," he said.

The petition says that Bhagat Singh fought for the independence of the sub-continent. The petition further says that Singh is respected in the subcontinent not only by the Sikhs, and Hindus but also Muslims.

"It is a matter of national importance and should be fixed before a full bench," Qureshi pleaded. He said Singh's name was not mentioned in the First Information Report (FIR) of the murder of British police officer John P. Saunders for which he was sentenced to death. Written in Urdu, the FIR was registered with the Anarkali police station on December 17, 1928 against two 'unknown gunmen.' PTI

Absence at top meeting adds to buzz about Gen Li's ouster

BEIJING

SPECULATION about the missing Chinese Defence Minister Gen Li Shangfu may have been removed and detained became rife after he was conspicuously absent at the meeting of the Central Military Commission (CMC) here on Friday.

Regarded as a close confidante of President Xi Jinping, Gen Li has not been seen in public since early this month. Gen Li was conspicuously missing from the meeting held on Friday of the CMC, the overall high command of the Chinese military headed by President Xi, as per the footage aired on the state broadcaster CCTV, extending an unexplained public absence, the Hong Kong-based South China Morning Post reported on Saturday.

The Friday meeting discussed the political education of the People's Liberation Army (PLA). Three of the seven-member Central Military Commission (CMC) He Weidong, the commission's vice-chairman; Admiral Miao Hua, who supervises political affairs, and rocket force General Zhang Shengmin, who is in charge of disciplinary issues, attended the meeting.

Also, not in attendance were General Liu Zhenli, the chief of staff of the joint staff department, and General Zhang Youxia, Xi's trusted ally and first-ranked CMC vice chair.

N Korean arms for Russia won't make big impact: US

US Army Gen Mark Milley made the remarks during NATO meeting

OSLO

NORTH Korea may be able to boost Russia's supply of artillery munitions for the war in Ukraine, but that is not likely to make a big difference, the top American military officer said as he arrived in Norway for NATO meetings that began on Saturday and will focus in part on the conflict.

US Army Gen Mark Milley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the recent meeting in Russia between North Korean leader Kim Jong Un and Russian President Vladimir Putin will probably lead North Korea to provide Soviet-era 152 mm artillery rounds to Moscow. But he said it was not yet clear how many or how soon. "Would it have a huge difference? I'm skeptical of that," Milley told reporters travelling with him. He said that while he does not want to play down the weapons assistance too much, "I doubt that it would be decisive."

Milley said there is a continued need for more weapons and equipment in Ukraine and that allies and partners will be discussing how to address that. He said he believes there continues to be broad, bipartisan support in the United States and the US Congress for the aid.

Foreign governments and experts have speculated that Kim will likely supply ammunition to Russia in exchange for receiving advanced weapons or technology from Russia.

Kim Jong Un (C) listens explanations by Admiral Nikolai Yevmenov, Commander-in-Chief of the Russian Navy (R) at the port of Vladivostok, Russia on Saturday | AP

Milley and the other defence chiefs from NATO countries are meeting at the Holmenkollen ski area on the edge of Oslo over the next several days to discuss support for Ukraine.

Meanwhile, Kim Jong Un inspected Russia's nuclear-capable bombers, hypersonic missiles and an advanced warship from its Pacific fleet on Saturday as he continued his trip.

After arriving in the city of Artyom by train, Kim travelled to an airport just outside the port city of Vladivostok where Russian Defence Minister Sergei Shoigu and other senior military officials gave him an up-close look at Russia's strategic bombers and other warplanes.

All the Russian warplanes shown to Kim on Saturday were among the types that have seen active use in the war in Ukraine, including the Tu-160, Tu-95 and Tu-22 bombers that have regularly launched cruise missiles.

Shoigu and Lt. Gen Sergei Kobylash, the commander of the Russian long-range bomber force, explained to Kim that the Tu-160 had recently received new cruise missiles with a range of more than 6,500 kilometres. Pointing at the weapons bay, Shoigu said that each bomber carries 12 missiles. AP

RALLY AGAINST PM FOR HELPING CORRUPT ALLY

Malaysia: Hundreds of people staged an anti-government rally on Saturday in the Malaysian capital, accusing PM Anwar Ibrahim of helping his key ally escape prosecution in exchange for political support. Prosecutors unexpectedly dropped 47 corruption charges against Deputy PM Ahmad Zahid Hamidi on September 4. Speakers in Kuala Lumpur accused government of interfering with the case to let Zahid off the hook in return for political support. Protesters marched in the city centre chanting, "Charge Zahid," "Reform is dead" and "Down with Anwar"

Iran stops Amini's family from holding ceremony

PARIS

IRANIAN authorities on Saturday prevented the family of Mahsa Amini from holding a ceremony to commemorate the first anniversary of her death, confining her father to his home after briefly detaining him, rights groups said.

Amini, a 22-year-old Iranian Kurd, died a few days after her arrest by religious police for allegedly violating the strict dress code for women. Her family says she died from a blow to the head but this is disputed by Iranian authorities.

Mahsa Amimi's father Amjad Amini was detained while exiting the family home in the western town of Saqez and then released after being warned not to hold a memorial service at her graveside, the Kurdistan Human Rights Network (KHRN), 1500tasvir monitor and Norway-based Iran Human Rights (IHR) said.

He was now not being allowed to leave the family home, with members of the security forces stationed outside, the groups added in separate statements.

"Amjad Amini is under house arrest... Security forces are preventing him from visiting his daughter's grave," said IHR.

IRNA described the reports of the arrest as "false," saying they were aimed at "inciting the population to protest."

The state media reported that Iranian security forces foiled an assassination attempt on Saturday on Amjad Amini.

IRNA said the attempt on Amjad Amini's life took place as he was on his way to visit his daughter's grave at the Aichi cemetery in Saqez.

"Security forces arrested several members of a terrorist group who wanted to assassinate Amjad Amini," the official IRNA news agency said, citing the deputy governor of Kurdistan province, Mehdi Ramezani. AFP

S Korean teachers rally for protection from abusive parents

Thousands of South Korean school teachers and staff rallied in Seoul on Saturday for more legal protection from bullying by parents, a rising problem in a country known for its brutally competitive school environments

'IMMUNITY FROM ABUSE CLAIMS'

Dressed in black, thousands of teachers and school staff occupied a street near the National Assembly, holding up signs that read, "Grant teachers immunity from child emotional abuse claims"

The protesters said more than 9,000 teachers have been reported by parents for child abuse in the past eight years

Police estimated that around 20,000 people turned out in Saturday's rally

DEBATING BILLS

Lawmakers are currently debating bills that would meet some of the teachers' demands to for immunity from child abuse claims

Some have raised concerns over the potential changes, saying the proposals could further weaken protection for children

EMOTIONAL ABUSE

The protesting teachers say current laws make it difficult to exercise control over their classrooms and leave them at the mercy of overbearing parents, who could easily accuse them of emotionally abusing children The weekend demonstrations were triggered by the death of a teacher who was found dead at her elementary school in July after reportedly expressing emotional distress caused by complaints from allegedly abusive parents

'Kasturi' branding for cotton

Likely to ensure quality & consistency, reduce contamination, thereby, increasing exports

VAITHEESWARAN B @ Chennai

INDIA, the world's largest cotton producer and second-largest consumer, aims to increase exports of raw cotton and value-added products such as yarn and textiles, and create premium value for the domestic cotton with the 'Kasturi Cotton' branding effort.

Union textiles ministry is taking steps to brand Indian cotton by adopting certain standards and specifications in cotton farming, sourcing, optimising the supply chain, and processing for textiles. It includes traceability, and sustainability measures, reflecting the fashion trend in the developed markets.

This is expected to ensure quality and consistency, reduce contamination, thereby, improving quality consistency, and increasing exports. The government hopes this will also help better price realisation for cotton farmers. Kasturi cotton is also expected to enhance value perception for Indian textiles abroad.

The Kasturi Cotton India project will be implemented from October -- 2023- 24 cotton season. Preparatory arrangements are in the final stage, according to the Union government.

Indian cotton, which is often discounted in international markets by 3 to 4 US Cents/pound (lb) in comparison to equivalent foreign cotton due to contamination issues, would get its true value in export, Textiles Ministry said in response to the query sent by this newspaper. Good quality cotton and value-added products will improve foreign exchange earnings, the ministry said.

Import substitution is also the stated goal of the program. As per the ministry, this could reduce nearly 5 lakh contaminant-controlled cotton bales, valuing around ₹1,400 crore with the availability of good, contaminant-controlled cotton within the country.

However, lack of defined goals and clarity in implementation is creating confusion among stakeholders in the cotton value chain.

Dr Venkatachalam, advisor of the Tamil Nadu spinning mills association and a member of the Stakeholders Committee of Cotton Advisory Board, says there are various parameters in determining the quality of cotton such as length, strength, moisture, and contamination and it differs with each variety of cotton seeds and its place of cultivation. "How can we bring uniformity to more than 40 varieties of cotton, cultivated in different climatic and soil condition. Without addressing this, Kasturi cotton would just be a label without any value," he argued.

Textile, industry, ginning and spinning mills, farmers' representatives this newspaper spoke to agreed that clarity is not available in this matter.

Industry representatives allege that the government didn't consult with stakeholders, though various meetings were held. "Officials held the meeting with previous set agendas without knowing the ground reality," the representative said on condition of anonymity. Textiles ministry didn't respond to our queries on whether a particular seed has been selected for the program or how to ensure quality consistency among different varieties.

A premium cotton textile manufacturer based out of Chennai said the issues of contamination and lack of controlled use of pesticides, fragmented processing and supply chain are bottlenecks to India's ambitions in quality and quantity. India's cultivation is 36% of the world's area with 33.3 million hectares but, in terms of productivity India was 38th in 2022, textile ministry data show. Lack of efficient farming practices and mechanized farming is cited as one of the reasons.

"Unpredictable rainfall patterns, changes in climatic conditions pose a problem, availability of water in irrigated areas, lack of high-yield hybrid seeds, market access are posing problems," said S Thiyagarajan, a cotton farmer from Renganathapuram in Tamil Nadu. Guidance and support are also needed for farmers to implement quality standards and specifications, he added.

Textiles ministry said it is planning a series of campaigns to create awareness among farmers and other stakeholders. Dr Ajay Kumar Shasany, Director of the National Botanical Research Institute (NBRI) at Lucknow, which is working closely in the Kasturi cotton initiative, said they are working on improving yields and stress tolerance along with traceability efforts.

TAXING

MAKING SENSE OF SIGNS OF INCIPIENT FISCAL STRESS

MADHAVI ARORA

MADHAVI ARORA
Lead Economist at Emkay Global Institutional Equities desk

THE noise around weaker tax revenue stream has marred the fiscal profile in first four months of financial year 2023-24 (4MFY24) so far, and market chatter is growing on the potential fiscal slippage, especially as the fiscal deficit hit 34% of budget estimate (BE), vs 20% for the same period last year. Notably, 4MFY24 gross tax revenue growth is merely 3% vs 10% FY24BE. What is striking is the deep contraction in corporate taxes even as corporate sector profits are not stressed. While these market chatters are understood, the wheat needs to be separated from the chaff.

Decoding deep contraction in corporate tax collections

The weak tax revenue stream has been led by 10% contraction in corporate tax collections in 4MFY24 (vs annual 11% growth in BE). This stands in contrast with reported 35% profit growth in our 4500 sample of listed/formal corporates in 1QFY24. The deep contraction also puts a heavy load on the rest of the year to catch up. The recency bias has led the market to extrapolate current noise in corporate taxes for the full year. However, we reckon that the corporate tax contraction is more of an anomaly than a trend and this technical/seasonal adjustment by corporates should normalise/smoothen over the year.

Post-Covid stealth reforms & formalisation in direct taxes

Our study hints at a behavioral change seen in corporate tax payment post-Covid, where front-loading/smoothening of advance tax payments has been led by unlisted/SMEs. This possibly explains: (i) sharp increase in the share of Q1 corporate tax collections as a share of the full year collections for GoI (~20% in FY23 vs <12% in FY19 ~10% between FY01-10), (ii) the increase came despite no extra push by listed companies to front-load their tax payments (they continue to pay ~20-24% of their full year tax liability in 1Q of each year post-Covid); and (iii) the share of listed firms' tax payments in Government of India (GoI)'s Q1 Corp tax collections falling to 50% by FY23 vs 70-90% earlier. (See Exhibits 1,2 below)

All of this possibly explains formalization and better tax compliance amid GST-led enhanced tax scrutiny/better estimation of advance tax liabilities for SMIDs, apart from factors like better economic outcomes in early growth cycle.

Increased formalisation may explain improved tax behaviour

The behavioral changes seen in corporate advance tax payments post-pandemic also reflect formalization of the economy, and improved tax compliance amidst GST-led enhanced tax scrutiny for SMEs, apart from factors such as better economic outcomes in the early growth cycle. Enhanced tax scrutiny made SMEs disclose all dealings (purchases/sales) which would assist tax authorities in computing the correct tax liabilities. This probably led to better estimations of advance tax liabilities by companies, which would otherwise delay payment of advance taxes under the garb of estimating lower profits till year-end actual liabilities are calculated/finalized.

Signs of pre-Covid tax behaviour by SMEs again

Startlingly, we are seeing signs of a reversal to pre-Covid behaviour in Q1FY24 corporate tax payments by unlisted/SMEs firms. The share of listed companies in 1Q corporate tax collections by GoI is back to the highs of 76% (vs 50% last year and pre-Covid average of ~80%). Thus contraction in GoI's corporate tax revenue may thus be explained by unlisted/SME firms delaying their tax payments in 1QFY24. We see this is an anomaly and not a trend, we expect corporate tax collections to pick up in 2HFY24 (as the missing SMEs catch up in line with pre Covid trends and refunds get adjusted for), albeit still growing at a slower pace than budgeted (7% vs 11%).

We are yet to find a convincing answer as to why unlisted firms/SMEs would again choose to delay their tax payments again. It could be an early sign that the economy is possibly in a late business cycle, with higher cost of capital and real rates have started to pinch them disproportionately. Thereby, falling revenue and profit estimates for these firms is leading them to again choose to push back most of their advance tax payments, as in the past.

Public investment and residential realty have been leading capex cycle while other agents are missing. On consumption, urban upper/mid-strata have been leading the recovery. Falling income/consumption growth in the urban sector, may imply rural consumption

Is the revenue stream still an issue ahead, despite improving sequentially ahead on taxes?

Given the non-linear relationship between economic activity and taxes, the overall tax growth undershoot vs nominal growth is not too surprising in the late-cycle (just as it overshot nominal GDP in early cycle post-Covid). Therefore, there is a downside risk for tax revenue, but not to the extent as the negative growth in direct taxes so far is indicating. Nonetheless, revenue needs to be scrutinized closely, including disinvestment for slippages, which could push the government to tighten its purse strings ahead of the election cycle.

Capex frontloading not a fiscal worry; FY24 gross fiscal deficit/GDP (GFD/GDP) to see risk of 20bps slippage

The capex frontloading by the Centre ahead of the election cycle (52% growth/32% of annual capex achieved) has been complemented well by States this year, as the GoI realizes that the multiplier effect of capex comes with a lag. We expect the public capex cycle to remain intact, but it may incrementally slow in 2HFY24. That said, we see risk of 20-30bps slippage in GFD/GDP ratio from 5.9% in BE, led by: (1) nearly 0.3%pts and 0.1%pts slippage in net tax revenues and divestment respectively - partly offset by a bumper RBI dividend, (2) lower nominal GDP growth of 9.4% vs 10.5%BE. However, we do not see any material slippage on expenditure and expect govt. to rejig revenue spending rather than spending more. (See Ex 3)

Growth levers still missing

Thus far, public investment and residential real estate have been leading the capex cycle while other agents are missing. On consumption, the urban upper/mid-strata have been leading the recovery. However, negative fiscal impulse on net, lagged effect of tighter monetary policy, and falling income/consumption growth in the urban sector, may imply rural consumption and private investment will have to step up to sustain growth momentum.

The tepid rural income and consumption will, however, be further hit owing to a disappointing monsoon. Besides, sustained broad private capex cycles will require sustained private consumption trends, which seem to be still missing. All this makes us a bit uncomfortable to expect robust FY24 GDP growth and we continue to see sub 6% print. However, we recognise factors like sustained buoyancy in services momentum and nimble policy thrust to increase trend growth, ahead of the general elections, could add upside risk to our forecast.

REC sanctions ₹6K cr loan to Greenko for green project

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

STATE-OWNED REC Limited on Saturday announced sanctioning of a ₹6,075 crore loan to renewable energy company Greenko for establishment of a 1,440 MW standalone pumped storage project.

The non-banking financial company and infrastructure finance company (NBFC-IFC), REC Limited also said it is in advanced discussions with Greenko for funding multiple clean energy projects.

The National Electricity Plan of the Central Electricity Authority has forecasted remarkable growth in renewable energy capacity, estimating a four-fold increase between FY 2022 and FY 2032, according to a REC statement. This ambitious projection includes a seven-fold rise in solar energy, a five-and-a-half-fold expansion in pumped storage projects, and a three-fold surge in wind energy. These figures align with global sustainability goals and national commitments to renewables, presenting not only a business opportunity for REC Limited but also an avenue to contribute significantly to the country's clean energy initiatives.

REC, a Maharatna company, has aligned its efforts with the country's commitments under COP26 and recent G20 undertakings. With a clear vision and unwavering dedication, REC is on track to achieve a green finance loan portfolio totalling ₹3 lakh crore by the fiscal year 2030. Meanwhile, the company has sanctioned debt funding of over ₹3,081 crore to renewable energy company Serentica Renewables for its 560 MW peak greenfield solar-wind hybrid project in Gadag district of Karnataka.

12 companies hit IPO market in Sept; expect to raise over ₹10,000 crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

Injured Naseem all but out of 2023 ODI WC

Pakistan's Naseem Shah, in all likelihood, will miss upcoming ODI World Cup in India, after sustaining a serious right shoulder injury. The 20-year-old suffered the injury during Pakistan's Super 4 clash against India in the Asia Cup. While MRI scans done in Colombo and Dubai have revealed sufficient damage to his shoulder but PCB wants opinion from a specialist in UK.

Final act of dress rehearsal

India are all set to face Sri Lanka in the final of the Asia Cup at the R Premadasa Stadium in Colombo. A look...

REST OR NO REST?

India rested Virat Kohli, Jasprit Bumrah, and Kuldeep Yadav in the final Super Fours clash against Bangladesh and ended up on the wrong side of the result. Given the three-match series against Australia starting in less than a week and the injury concerns over Shreyas Iyer and Axar Patel (Washington Sundar is replacing the latter), whether India will go back to full strength or rest a couple of players is yet to be seen.

INCREASING INJURY INCIDENTS FOR SL

Sri Lanka started the Asia Cup without pacer Dushmantha Chameera and leg-spinner Wanindu Hasaranga as they were ruled out due to injuries. Maheesh Theekshana is the latest addition to the list. The off-spinner will miss the summit clash due to a strained right hamstring. It will be interesting to see how Sri Lanka respond without some of their best players in the final.

WHO PLAYS AT NO. 4?

In this edition of the Asia Cup, India have given the opportunity to KL Rahul, Ishan Kishan, and Shreyas Iyer to bat at four. Rahul and Kishan have done well at the position, with the former even hitting a century against Pakistan. If this is the final rehearsal before the World Cup, it will give a clear indication of who will play at the much-debated position in the World Cup.

India will be looking to clinch their first Asia Cup title in five years on Sunday

MORE THAN JUST A FINAL BEFORE WC

SINCE 2019, India have played and won numerous bilateral series in all formats of the game. These successes, unfortunately, didn't translate to multi-team tournaments as they had not won a single trophy during the period.

To be more specific, they last won a three or more team tournament in September 2018 when the Men in Blue lifted the Asia Cup beating Bangladesh in the final. That edition was played in ODI format. In T20Is, the last time they brought home the cup from a tournament involving more than two teams was March 2018. They had then won a thrilling final against Bangladesh at the Nidahas Twenty 20 Tri-Series in Sri Lanka.

Since those two titles, India have played an ODI World Cup (2019), two T20 World Cups (2021, 2022), two World Test Championship finals (2021 and 2023) and a T20 Asia Cup (2022) but have not managed to end their trophy drought. So when the team faces Sri Lanka in the 2023 Asia Cup final here at the R Premadasa Stadium in Colombo on Sunday, it will be a golden opportunity for the team to end this barren run and get into a winning mood before the ODI World Cup begins at home on October 5.

India opener Shubman Gill too believes a win in the Asia Cup final will give the team a lot of confidence ahead of the World Cup. "Winning the final is very important for us because creating a winning habit is important. Peaking at the right time and gaining momentum at the right time is important for any team. It is also important for the team to maintain that momentum because losing in one or two matches can add pressure on you. Winning here will give us a lot of momentum and confidence going into the World Cup," he told journalists after India lost their last Super Four match to Bangladesh on Friday night. But it will be easier said than done as they will be up against Sri Lanka in the summit clash. The team from the Island Nation is a different beast altogether when it competes at the continental tournament. Just twice in the 39-year history of the ODI version of the Asia Cup, they have not made it to the final. It happened in 2012 and 2018. As many as 14 editions including the ongoing one have been held in ODI format while two were held in T20 format with Sri Lanka reaching in 12 finals (11 ODIs and 1 T20Is). India have reached the finals on 10 occasions (9 ODIs and 1 T20I).

India are the most successful side in the tournament winning the trophy seven times (6 ODIs and 1 T20I). Only on three occasions it lost the final and all of those losses came against Sri Lanka in 1997, 2004 and 2008 respectively. Sri Lanka, on the other hand, had won six titles (5 ODIs and 1 T20I) so far. Gill admitted India need to be at their best if they want to beat Sri Lanka. "I think they (SL) have great momentum with them. The way they won the last match was great to see. We will have to pull up our socks, and we have to be at our 100 percent to beat them."

Among the six teams that are featuring here at the Asia Cup, four, excluding Nepal, will be playing against the hosts India at the World Cup. The wickets and conditions here in Sri Lanka and India are unlikely to differ a lot making the event a perfect platform to prepare for the marquee event.

"I think the kind of wickets we are playing is absolutely perfect. It is a great practice for batters and bowlers because these are the kind of pitches that we generally play in India. And definitely playing on these wickets against good teams against good oppositions under pressure is definitely that will help us in the World Cup," added Gill.

MOST ASIA CUP TITLES

Format	India	Sri Lanka	Pakistan
ODI	6	5	2
T20I	1	1	-

9 India reached the ODI final nine times and 1 time they entered the T20I final

10 Sri Lanka had made it to the ODI final 12 times and once they reached the T20I final

'Sense of togetherness' in squash camp

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

WITH the squash event at the upcoming Asian Games set to begin on September 26, the eight-member India team is training in earnest at the ongoing High Performance Camp going in the Indian Squash Academy, Chennai. The men's team comprises Saurav Ghosal, Abhay Singh, Mahesh Mangaonkar, and Harinder Pal Singh Sandhu. The women's team includes Joshna Chinappa, Dipika Pallikal Karthik, Anahat Singh, and Tanvi Khanna.

The Indian squash team has a good track record at the Asian Games, having bagged a total of 13 medals, including one gold and three silvers. India are fourth on the all-time medal tally at the Asiad behind Malaysia, Hong Kong, Pakistan. Saurav, Mahesh, and Harinder were part of the team that won India's first-ever gold medal in squash at the 2014 Asian Games 2014, along with Kush Kumar as the fourth member. Saurav trained with former world champ Gregory Gaultier for more than 90 minutes on Saturday afternoon. Greg put Saurav through the paces and sparred with him. The India No 1 player and second seed in the Asian Games was made to play the backhand continuously for a while in order to polish his skills. "The team has the right mixture of experience and youth. Last year, I came to train them (team) in preparation for the lead up to the tournament (Commonwealth Games). So they asked me again to come here this year you know, I really like the group. Old friend of mine James Willstrop is also there, we are here to share our experience, hope the players get the best out of this camp," said Gregory.

Saurav, on his part, was pleased to spar with Greg and believed that the sessions were fruitful in sharpening his skills. He also insisted that the India team was determined to go all out and try for team gold. "Greg worked on a few things to make me sharper. He went about adding a little bit of intensity and sharpness to my game and it was very good to train with him," said Saurav. "Greg has an unbelievable pedigree (records) himself and the hallmark of his game was intensity and so we are trying to incorporate that, how we can pick his brains in different situations, how to deal with different balls at the court and for me, it is how to respond to different situations in the matches," added Saurav.

The 37-year old is working on his fitness and is also keen to handle pressure and expectations. "I am trying to be physically fit and keep my body fresh for the Games. I believe there is always pressure when you play, in particular for your country. I am not going to put pressure on my mind, just want to enjoy the process. I am very grateful we had the opportunity to try to win a gold medal for India (2014). It would be a relief if we could go on and try to win the men's side team gold and individual gold," said Saurav.

The preparatory camp is being supervised by Cyrus Poncha, secretary general SRFI. Cyrus has made all the arrangements for the smooth training of the players and trainers. All the players seem to bond well at the camp. "It's a good idea to have the camp at the Indian Squash Academy. We have a team event as well at the Asian Games, so its always good to get everyone together and with a sense of togetherness we can put our best foot forward. It is good to train with everyone and keep pushing each other to give our best every day, execute and win every match, win medals for India," opined Saurav.

Dipika made history by becoming the first Indian to break into the top 10 in the PSA Women's rankings in 2012. Joshna, on the other hand, achieved a career-high world ranking of World No 10 in July 2016. Anahat was the youngest player to represent India in the Commonwealth Games at the age of 14. In December 2022, she was ranked as first in Asia in the U-15 category. Tanvi, currently holds the fourth highest ranking among Indian players and has also won a silver medal in the Asian Games 2018.

Dipika and Harinder defeated the Malaysian pair of Rachel Arnold and Ivan Yuen in the final to win the Asian mixed doubles squash championships in June this year. The duo trained hard at the ISA here on Saturday. Dipika was confident of a good show by the women's team and in particular, the mixed doubles pair. "Asian Games is tough, but we have prepared well so I think we (as a team) have a real good chance to do well. I will be pairing with Harinder and a few months back we won the Asian mixed doubles championship. We would like to carry that form into the Asian Games. There is no pressure as such, as we have worked in earnest for the event in China. Fitness wise, I have really worked hard and we hope to do well. After becoming a mother, I really worked on my fitness to keep in tune to the demands of the game," said Dipika.

SQUASH

MEN: Saurav Ghosal

The psychological wounds of a heartbreaking loss in the men's singles final at the 2014 Incheon edition remain fresh in Ghosal's mind as the veteran athlete goes into the Games once again as the favourite for the gold medal. The Indian is seeded second in the singles behind Malaysia's Eain Yow Ng, an opponent 12 years younger to him. Ghosal, who is currently the highest-ranked player in Asia at 17, will also need to be wary of his rivals from Pakistan, Kuwait and Hong Kong.

WOMEN: Joshna Chinappa

A record 19-time national champion, Joshna goes into the competition following an injury-ridden year that saw the former world number 10 drop to as low as 71 in the PSA rankings. However, she remains India's best for a medal in the women's singles. Her main rivals in the competition include top seed Satomi Watanbe of Japan and Ho Tze Lok of Hong Kong.

MIXED DOUBLES: Dipika Pallikal & Harinderpal Sandhu

Dipika and her mixed doubles partner Harinder Pal had the opportunity to take part in the Asian Games test event in Hangzhou three months ago and they made the most of it by winning the gold. The Games are expected to be Dipika's swansong and she is giving her all on the training front to make it a memorable affair.

Event schedule: September 26 - October 5

Verstappen's run in doubt after qualifying at 11th

AGENCIES @ Singapore

MAX Verstappen's historic run of 10 Formula One wins in a row looks set to end after he qualified down in 11th place on Saturday for the Singapore Grand Prix.

Carlos Sainz Jr. took pole for the race on Sunday ahead of George Russell and Charles Leclerc as Verstappen's Red Bull team had its worst qualifying results of the season. Verstappen, the runaway championship leader, was eliminated by .007 seconds in the second session by rookie Liam Lawson of sister team AlphaTauri.

Verstappen's teammate Sergio Perez was 13th after a spin. The two drivers have won every race this season between them. Verstappen told his team over the radio that it was an "absolutely shocking experience".

There could be worse to come for him. The Dutch driver is under investigation for two incidents in which he appeared to impede others. Verstappen stopped at the exit of the pit lane in the first part of qualifying and held up AlphaTauri's Yuki Tsunoda while driving slowly in the second. Verstappen has won races this season from sixth on the grid in Belgium and ninth in Miami, but the Red Bull car performed better on those tracks than it has so far in Singapore.

Asiad: Football teams to leave on Sunday

NEW DELHI: The Indian men's and women's football teams will fly out to Hangzhou on Sunday night for the Asian Games, quelling speculation about some logistical issues with regards to the flight tickets. Bhupender Singh Bajwa, the Indian chef de mission for the Asian Games, told a news agency that the tickets had been "issued". The football event will kick off from September 19.

Nagal saves India's blushes on Day 1

LUCKNOW: Sumit Nagal saved India's blushes with a win after Sasikumar Mukund limped out of the opening singles in humid conditions as India and Morocco shared honours on the opening day of the Davis Cup World Group II tie here. Mukund retired when the score was 7-6 (4), 5-7, 1-4 against Ahmed Dlimi. Nagal then expectedly brought the team back with a 6-3, 6-3 win over Adam Moundir, ranked 779.

Abhimanyu upsets higher-ranked Ukrainian

BELGRADE: All four Indian free-style wrestlers won their opening-round bouts on day one of the UWW World Championships with 70kg grappler Abhimanyu upsetting World No 7 Ukraine's Ihor Nykyforuk here on Saturday. Abhimanyu, the bronze-medal winner at the U23 World Championships in June and ranked 26th in the world, defeated the Ukrainian 19-9, effecting a victory by fall (VFA).

With slow track expected for final, SL banking on spin & home factor

FIROZ MIRZA @ Colombo

The Asia Cup final between co-hosts Sri Lanka and India on Sunday will be the sixth match at the R Premadasa Stadium in Colombo since September 9. Given the number of contests the venue has hosted in the past nine days, there is a high chance of a slow and turning track.

If that turns out to be true then the Dasun Shanaka-led side has the potential to defeat India in the summit clash. They nearly did that in their Super Four clash against the Men in Blue last week. Their spinners scalped all ten wickets as Sri Lanka bundled out India for a paltry 213. Unfortunately for them, the chase never got off once they were reduced to 73/5 in less than 20 overs. Middle-order and lower middle-order batters offered resistance but they eventually lost by 41 runs. But if they follow the same template and their batters play sensibly this time around, they have enough ammunition to stop India from winning a silverware at the continental event.

Dunith Wellalage during a training session on Saturday | SLC

The Sri Lanka skipper said his team is ready to face India in the big final. "Of course we are ready (for the final). It totally depends on the pitch, which has played a part in the tournament. According to the pitch, we will field a good side. Especially, bowling against India, so we need to take wickets upfront and that opens up the game for us. That's the key area in the game," Shanaka told journalists on the eve of the title clash. "Peaking at the right time and the boys really want to deliver for the country. As a team we have been underdogs, so everyone wants to perform on the bigger stage. These youngsters need to show the world what they are capable of. I think that's the secret of this young team."

The all-rounder confirmed that Maheesh Theekshana will not play the final as he has sustained a grade II injury but also clarified that he will be available for the World Cup. As has been the case during most of the matches of the tournament, the final may also get affected by the rain.

Man United lose, City keep up perfect start

AGENCIES @ London

MANCHESTER United's crisis deepened on Saturday as Brighton's Danny Welbeck scored in a 3-1 win against his old club while Manchester City beat West Ham to stay perfect in the Premier League.

Liverpool had a brief taste of life at the top, beating Wolves 3-1 in the early kick-off, while Tottenham scored two goals in stoppage time to beat Sheffield United. The season is spiralling out of control for Erik ten Hag's United, who started the campaign in buoyant mood after ending their trophy drought and finishing third in the league last season.

United started brightly at Old Trafford, desperate to put their nightmare start to the season behind them but former youth player Welbeck silenced the home fans in the 20th minute. A 53rd-minute goal by Pascal Gross gave United a mountain to climb and substitute Joao Pedro made it 3-0 before a consolation for Hannibal Mejbri. Brighton's fourth straight league win against United lifted them to third in the table. Manchester City continue to churn out the wins, even though Pep Guardiola's men did not have it all their own way at the London Stadium, trailing to a James Ward-Prowse goal in the first half.

Man United players react after Brighton's second goal on Saturday | AP

Jeremy Doku equalised early in the second period and Bernardo Silva put City 2-1 before Erling Haaland's seventh goal of the season guaranteed a fifth win in five games.

Results: Aston Villa 3-1 Crystal Palace; Fulham 1-0 Luton; Man United 1-3 Brighton; Tottenham 2-1 Sheffield United; West Ham 1-3 Man City; Wolves 1-3 Liverpool.

Bayern held by Leverkusen

MUNICH: Harry Kane's fourth goal in four Bundesliga games was not enough as Bayern Munich were held to a 2-2 home draw by Bayer Leverkusen on Friday, with Exequiel Palacios netting a dramatic injury-time penalty.
